THERE'S ALWAYS A REASON.

People have reason to complain of this year's year's summer, yet there are those—and they are a multitude—who have not been upset by want of sunshine, as they have had perfect sleep at night in all weathers through using our mattresses.

The demand for the mattresses has necessitated our working overtime to cope with the orders, and those who rest on them are inclined to sleep overtime, too.

Look for the "OD" Label.

HOLIDAYS AND EXCURSIONS.

MORE and more educational experts are laying stress on the importance of making good use of the holidays. Children who spend their holidays in the countryside generally profit by what they see going on around them. A few weeks on a farm give them a conception of the roots of national life, and of the natural economy on which society is built. Children whose lives are cast in the mechanical routine of the cities lack these advantages. Bread to them is something obtained from shops, and the noble pageant of seed-time and harvest is to them a thing unknown. Yet they have their advantages over their country cousins, too. They have museums within an hour's walk of home, and a helpful uncle can make a walk through a city street as wonderful as a visit to the bazaars of Haroun Al-rashid's Bagdad.

* * * * *

SCHOOL visits to museums are growing in popularity. Last year Molly's school went en masse to the National Museum in Dublin, brought to town by a special train. This year other schools are following the example.

More than Ireland's history is illuminated by a visit to Kildare street. It is, perhaps, chiefly important that a day spent in those fascinating halls should foster an intelligent pride in the country's past. Those wonderful golden relics, coming down from a remote and strangely sumptuous age, bring home more vividly than any weak words the dignity of the past in which the present has its roots. Yet this realisation would be unfruitful if the young visitors should fail to see their country in its due setting.

The instructor who plays guide, however, finds matter for a larger moral. He shows the history of man and of civilisation, exhibited in little, in relics that display the march of progress from age to age. Henceforward he can point his lessons in classics with reminders drawn from that visit to Ireland's museum; he can draw instances to illuminate history and geography; and in all subjects he deals with young folk of a quickened imagination.

* * * * *

THE National Museum is but one of several places which every boy and girl ought to visit. The antiquities in Trinity College, Dublin, attract many visitors; but their very setting, laden with historic association, provides a lesson in itself. There are famous places like Christ Church Cathedral and the Bank of Ireland which demand a visit, but supreme in juvenile favour is the "Zoo." A trip to the "Zoo" is a treat that the youngest covet, and it may be made instructive to the seniors. Year by year the custom of taking school parties there is growing.

It is a pity that better use is not made of the Botanical Gardens. They form a natural complement to the "Zoo"; and in their fields and rockeries, where strange plants and mosses flourish, the visitor seems to behold the world in little and to overlook far-off lands.

If it is true that city people commonly go through life without visiting the places of chief interest near their homes—so that the Irish visitor to London, having "done" the Tower and the British Museum, is surprised to learn from his Cockney acquaintances that they have never visited these places of wonder—it is true, also, that country people often neglect what is most interesting in their own counties. There are schools in Munster, in easy reach of the Rock of Cashel, whose pupils will lose their youthful opportunity of visiting that remarkable fragment of antiquity. Better use ought to be made of that brightly illustrated lesson book, the face of the surrounding country.

* * * *

IN England the custom of school trips to the Continent is proving richly fruitful in language study, and in general stimulus to school work. At Easter time parties are made up under the appropriate teachers; travel agencies supply cheap touring tickets, and students spend a week or ten days in Normandy Belgium, or the Rhine Valley.

Travel now is so cheap and convenient that this custom ought to be equally successful in Irish schools. It is well to see London on the way to the Continent; but direct trips can be made at low cost. Similar trips into Western Ireland for the benefit of earnest students of Irish also would prove beneficial.

THE CINEMATOGRAPH ACT.

LIMERICK PROPRIETORS FINED.

At Limerick City District Sessions yesterday the proprietors of the Coliseum, Grand Central, Athenæum and Abbey cinema houses were prosecuted by the Corporation for contravening the Cinematograph Act on August 13 last. The evidence for the prosecution was that the exit passages were obstructed with chairs, and that visitors congregated in the passages.

In fining the defendants £1 each District Justice Flood said that the Corporation, Civic Guards and himself had a duty to perform to the public; and they had in the Drumcollogher fire of last year a painful reminder of the danger of cinemas when the regulations were not observed.

DELAYED MURDER TRIAL.

APPLICATION IN HIGH COURT.

QUESTION OF PRISONER'S DETENTION.

Mr. Justice Hanna, sitting as Vacation Judge in the High Court, Dublin Castle, yesterday, refused an application for a conditional order of habeas corpus on behalf of Edward O'Reilly, of Goold's Cross, County Tipperary, who is detained in Mountjoy Prison awaiting trial on the following charges:—

(1) Murder of Guard Hugh Ward;
(2) Conspiracy with others, not in custody, to murder Guard Ward; and
(3) Robbery under arms.

Mr. A. Lynn (instructed by Mr. J. J. Earley), who made the application, having cited the Habeas Corpus Acts and the authorities dealing with their interpretation, said that it was clear that, if a prisoner were held over for two sessions without trial, he should be automatically released.

Mr. McGuckin (instructed by the State Solicitor), on behalf of the Attorney-General, opposed the application. The accused man was charged with the murder of a Civic Guard on an evening in November, 1926. He had been identified by another member of the Civic Guard as having been one of the people who entered the barrack and committed the murder. Mr. McGuckin added that there was no law enacting the length of time a prisoner may be detained.

The result of Mr. Justice Hanna's judgment was that, while holding that Mr. Lynn was right in his view and contention about the Habeas Corpus Act, he (Mr. Justice Hanna) thought that he had not complied with the provisions of the Act, which would be a condition precedent to his being entitled to the order which he sought. There was an undertaking now by the State that the man would be tried at the next Court, and he promised that that undertaking would stand.

Mr. Lynn read the affidavit of Mrs. Catherine O'Reilly, mother of the accused man, who stated that her son was arrested on December 26, 1926, subsequently brought before the District Court, and on January 29 he was returned for trial to the Central Criminal Court. Though two sittings of the Central Criminal Court had since been held her son had not been tried.

Continuing, Mr. Lynn said that, with respect to the application which he had made to the President of the High Court, he explained that it was pro forma, and not an application for habeas corpus in the ordinary way. The grounds for the application were set out, not in the Act of 1781, but in Article 6 of the Free State Constitution.

Mr. Justice Hanna—I take it that that was merely an application by you on behalf of the accused man to have the case brought to trial?—Yes, my lord.

Mr. Justice Hanna—That is under the Habeas Corpus Act?—Yes, my lord.

QUESTION OF TRIAL.

Continuing, counsel said that on the previous evening at 5.30 a document was served on his solicitor. It was an affidavit from Mr. J. J. Hannigan, Chief Superintendent of the Civic Guards at Thurles, stating that he was in charge of the proceedings. The case was one of considerable public interest, and one in which a considerable number of witnesses would have to be examined for the prosecution, and also on behalf of the prisoner, and it was not practicable to place the accused on trial at the last sittings of the Court. The Central Criminal Court would again sit in November, and the trial of the accused man would be proceeded with at an early stage of the sittings.

Mr. Lynn proceeded to cite the Habeas Corpus Acts, and authorities dealing with their interpretation, and from these, he said, it was clear that, if a prisoner were held over for two sessions without trial, he should be automatically released. The case of Edward O'Reilly, he contended, was not adjourned, as had been suggested in an affidavit, as it had never come before the Court. In those circumstances it was improper to suggest that the case had been adjourned, seeing that it did not come before the Judge until counsel had mentioned the matter to him in making an application on behalf of the prisoner.

There was, however, he said, no case like this, where, due to the caprice of an official, a man was kept in prison.

THE ACT OF 1781.

Mr. Justice Hanna asked counsel if he relied principally upon Section 6 of the Irish Habeas Corpus Act of 1781, which provided that if a man was held over for two sessions without trial he should be discharged.

Mr. Lynn replied that that was one of his grounds; but there were others, which he proceeded to state to the Court.

Mr. McGuckin (instructed by the State Solicitor), on behalf of the Attorney-General, opposing the application, said that the accused man was charged with the murder of a member of the Civic Guard between 6.30 and 7 o'clock on an evening in November, 1926. The accused man had been definitely identified by another member of the Civic Guard as having been one of the people who entered the barracks and committed the murder. Although there had been positive identification by a member of the Civic Guard, and although the case was one of murder, the application now was that counsel should come in during the vacation, and get an order to release his client from custody. Any release from custody under habeas corpus entitled a prisoner to go free for ever under that particular charge. Neither justice nor law, counsel stated, was in such a state that this application could be granted.

ACT NOT APPLICABLE.

Mr. Justice Hanna—If the law says you must try a man within two sittings or terms of jail delivery you have to do it.

Mr. McGuckin—The law does not say any such thing. Counsel submitted that this Act of 1871 is not applicable to our Criminal Courts. Article 6 of the Constitution deals with cases of habeas corpus. It is not applicable to the proceedings at the Central Criminal Court.

Mr. Justice Hanna—Do you claim that the State is entitled in law to hold over the prosecution of a person who has been arrested until such time as it is convenient to the State to try him?

Mr. McGuckin—I do. One might assume that prisoners were not going to be held over longer than necessary. There is no law enacting the length of time a prisoner may be detained.

Mr. Justice Hanna—Article 6 deals with persons unlawfully detained, and the judge is bound to inquire into the detention of any person, and determine whether it is lawful or unlawful. There is nothing in that that expressly repeals the Habeas Corpus Act, and it is open to argument that the High Court must consider whether Section 6 of the Habeas Corpus Act is still in force.

Mr. McGuckin—I submit that it is no longer in force, having regard to the constitution of the new courts. Counsel contended that it was lawful detention in the present case. The Central Criminal Court is nothing more or less than the High Court, and is a continous Court.

MAGNA CHARTA.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that he was disinclined to whittle away the right of subjects to have their liberty preserved by the High Court from detention which might be illegal. It was a very serious contention put forward on behalf of the State—that, by reason of the establishment of the Central Criminal Court, the provisions of the old Habeas Corpus Act which protected the subject have been swept away so far as delay of trial is concerned. Under Magna Charta justice must be delayed to no one. The Habeas Corpus Act purports to carry that out, and that a man must be tried within two sittings of being held for trial.

Mr. McGuckin—With certain provisoes.

Mr. Justice Hanna—Yes, I admit, in case witnesses are not available; but there is no suggestion here that witnesses are not available.

Mr. McGuckin suggested that the liberty of the subject was protected by the Article he had referred to.

Mr. Justice Hanna—The detention is not illegal if you are right that the Central Criminal Court is a continuing Court, and that once a person is returned for trial there no habeas corpus can reach him. Is it suggested that the power of general adjournment of the Central Criminal Court from one time to another for the convenience of the administration of the law is to deprive a subject of the right he has under the Habeas Corpus Act?

Mr. McGuckin said that he did not put it in that way. The Habeas Corpus Act applied to the old system of the courts.

Mr. Justice Hanna—Why should the Habeas Corpus Act not apply to the sittings of the Central Criminal Court?

Mr. McGuckin said that it was a matter for the interpretation of the Act. He submitted that it did not apply to the newly-constituted courts.

THE STATE'S POSITION.

Mr. Justice Hanna—The Central Criminal Court is, in fact, a Court of general jail delivery. When I sit there I ask when I am finished if the jailer has any prisoners untried. I cannot see from your argument why the Habeas Corpus Act cannot apply to the Central Criminal Court. It is only a change of name. His lordship further said that he was impressed by the seriousness of the position taken up by the State, that they have now, by reason of the Constitution of the Central Criminal Court, power to hold a man in custody until it was convenient for them to try him. Such a thing was entirely inconsistent with the principle of the liberty of the subject. It may be the law; but they would have to be very careful before it was established as the law. They had the case of a man arrested on suspicion and kept in custody while the State was trying to get evidence to convict him, which was quite improper.

Mr. McGuckin said that no application for trial was made in pursuance of Section 6. It would be a serious thing if for some reason a prisoner was not brought for trial, and then for the first time on the last day of the term counsel was to say that the prisoner was entitled to immediate discharge without giving any formal notice, or making any request in open court for the trial of that prisoner.

Mr. Justice Hanna—When was he arrested?

Mr. Lynn—December 26th.

"A SERIOUS THING."

Mr. Justice Hanna said that would mean that the man would not be tried until nearly twelve months after arrest, and ten months after being returned for trial. "So far as I know anything of the administration of justice in this country," his lordship added, "there can be no reason for delaying the trial of any prisoner for such an extraordinarily long period. We have been always noted for having the criminal work administered with reasonable expedition, and it seems a serious thing if it were the law that the trial of a prisoner in 1927 in the Free State could not take place until nearly twelve months after he is returned for trial. The case for the State was completed, and all the evidence they thought necessary, or had obtained, was completed prior to the 29th January, and Mr. Lynn was within his right in stirring up the authorities in reference to the case and getting some explanation as to why there was this great delay in the trial of this serious case."

Mr. Lynn, replying to the arguments of Mr. McGuckin, said that he applied to the President of the High Court for a writ of habeas corpus.

Mr. Justice Hanna—You did not.

Mr. Lynn—I beg your lordship's pardon.

Mr. Justice Hanna—Here is your affidavit.

Mr. Lynn—I applied for his trial, or release, forthwith under the Habeas Corpus Act of 1781.

Proceeding, Mr. Lynn said that the prisoner did not wilfully neglect making the application. When he was returned for trial on January 29th it was presumed that he would be brought to trial in February, when the Central Criminal Court sat.

A SERIOUS ASPECT.

There was a serious aspect in connection with the case, which might apply to a poor person. In the case of a murder trial, when a prisoner was not able to provide for his defence, the presiding trial judge assigned counsel, not on the first day of the sessions, but on the first day of the trial. Therefore a poor person who would not have counsel to make an application on his behalf, might be kept in jail without trial for 20, 30 or 40 years—if he lived so long. The suggestion that the Central Criminal Court was a continuous Court—like Tennyson's brook, going on for ever—was absurd.

Mr. Justice Hanna—There are more things than Tennyson's brook which go on for ever. (Laughter.)

Mr. Lynn, having quoted further legal decisions, closed his arguments.

JUDGMENT.

"A SERIOUS QUESTION."

Mr. Justice Hanna, in refusing the application, said that the case raised a very important question. The accused man had not been brought to trial at the sittings of the Central Criminal Court, though two sessions of that tribunal had elapsed, and an application for his immediate trial or release had been refused. However, the inference which he drew from the affidavit and the application made to the President of the Central Criminal Court was that, failing his trial, he should be released on bail. He did not think that it was an application for habeas corpus, and in those circumstances counsel for the accused man applied to the Court for a writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Lynn had relied upon Section 6 of the Habeas Corpus Act of 1781, which, notwithstanding the changes in the Judiciary and the Constitution, was still in force; but on behalf of the State it was argued that this section was no longer in force by reason of the new Courts which had been established under the Constitution. That was a serious question from the point of view of the Constitution, and as a matter of law.

LIBERTY OF THE SUBJECT.

The Act, he proceeded, had been passed for the protection of the liberty of the subject owing to the great scandals and delays which had occurred in the trial of accused persons, and, as a matter of history, the Habeas Corpus Act was enacted with a view of remedying that evil. This provided that if two sessions elapsed without trial the person accused was entitled at the end of the second term to be discharged under Section 6 of the Irish Act of 1871. Courts for the disposal of prisoners then were Assizes, Courts of Oyer and Terminer, and Courts of General Jail Delivery. Those did not exist now the new Courts of the Free State having been established in substitution for them. However, it was to him inconceivable that in the establishment of those new courts it was intended to disregard, or set aside, the provisions under the Habeas Corpus Act, especially Section 6, passed for the protection of the liberty of the subject and the foundation upon which the liberty of the subject was built.

Did Section 6 apply to the Central Criminal Court, which was in substitution for the Assizes and the Court of General Jail Delivery, which was to try and deliver every person in jail? He was of the opinion that the Central Criminal Court was a Court of general delivery. It was started with that view under an Article of the Free State Constitution, and that Central Criminal Court had been sitting to clear the jail. He was of opinion that the provisions of Section 6 were applicable to the Central Criminal Court, and it was a Court of general jail delivery, having been substituted for the courts mentioned in the section. That section had never been expressly or impliedly repealed by any subsequent Act since the establishment of the Free State Constitution.

A CERTAIN PROCEDURE.

With regard to the first point which he raised, he was in favour of Mr. Lynn; but it could only apply if the provisions of the Act had been complied with. A certain procedure had to be followed. There should be an application in open court for the trial of an accused person; but no application for his trial was made in February. There was in July, and that provision under Section 6 which was relied upon by the State had not been complied with. The present was an application in Vacation, and more than two terms had elapsed since the accused man had been returned for trial. Consequently that section of the Act had not been complied with. In his opinion, so far as this application was concerned, the general power of adjournment contained in Section 5 cannot operate to deprive the subject of his right under the habeas corpus provision.

AN UNDERTAKING.

The result of his judgment was that while holding that Mr. Lynn was right in his view and contention about the Habeas Corpus Act, his lordship thought that he had not complied with the provisions of the Act, which would be a condition precedent to his being entitled to the order which he sought. There was an undertaking now by the State that the man would be tried at the next court, and he presumed that that undertaking would stand. He refused the application.

TOWN CLERKSHIP OF DUBLIN.

CITY COMMISSIONERS' RECOMMENDATION.

MR. MURPHY'S RETIRING ALLOWANCE.

It is expected that the Dublin Borough Commissioners will release Mr. John J. Murphy from the position of Town Clerk to take up his new duties as Chairman of the Electricity Supply Board, provided that the Government recoup to the Corporation the amount of pension payable to the Town Clerk during his period of service under the Government. Mr. Murphy has been in the service of the Corporation for over 36 years, and is entitled to a pension of £900 per annum on his present salary of £1,500 a year.

COMMISSIONER'S RECOMMENDATION.

Mr. P. J. Hernon, one of the Commissioners, recommends that a pension be paid to Mr. Murphy, and says:—"I am satisfied that on account of the excellent service which Mr. Murphy has given to the citizens during his period of office he is equitably entitled to receive the maximum consideration which it is possible for the Commissioners to give him, and I recommend that he be retired from his position of Town Clerk on a pension of £1,000 per annum, subject to the approval of the Minister as above mentioned. In the event of this recommendation being adopted, I recommend that Mr. Gerald J. Sherlock, assistant to the Town Clerk, be appointed Town Clerk at an initial salary of £1,200 per annum, rising to a maximum of £1,500 by annual increments of £50. Mr. Sherlock has been in the service of the Corporation for a period of 33 years, and during that time has given the utmost satisfaction both as regards capacity and attention to duty, and he has been particularly successful in the tenure of his present office as assistant to the Town Clerk since his appointment thereto in June, 1926. His present salary is £1,040 per annum, rising by annual increments of £40 to a maximum of £1,150.

This promotion will leave the position of assistant to the Town Clerk vacant. I do not think it advisable at the moment to fill this office. To provide for carrying on the duties of the Town Clerk during Mr. Sherlock's absences, I recommend that the present staff officer of the Town Clerk's Department, Mr. Thomas J. O'Neill, be appointed to act as deputy for Mr. Sherlock during his absences, and for the additional responsibility which he will have to undertake I recommend that he be granted an annual allowance of £100. Mr. O'Neill has over 19 years' service, and his present salary is £650, rising by annual increments of £25 to a maximum of £750 per annum. He at present takes entire charge, subject to the supervision of the Town Clerk, of the preparation of the Electors' Lists and Jurors' Lists. In this work he has the assistance of Mr. James Rowe, a Class A officer in the department.

OTHER CHANGES.

The above proposal as regards Mr. O'Neill will necessarily prevent him from giving so much attention as hitherto to the preparation of these lists and to the other routine work of the department. This will result in considerably more responsibility devolving on Mr. Rowe, whom I accordingly recommend to be promoted to the position of minor staff officer at £250 per annum, rising by the ordinary annual increments to the maximum of that class. Mr. Rowe has over nine years' service, and his present salary is £210 per annum, plus cost of living bonus. There has been a vacancy for a minor staff officer in this department since the promotion of Mr. Burton to the position of rate collector in 1925.

By the adoption of Report No. 124: 1926, the position of chief committee clerk in the Town Clerk's Department was abolished, and the duties of the position divided between the Assistant Town Clerk and Mr. John P. Keane, staff officer in the Finance and General Purposes Section. This arrangement has worked very satisfactorily since it was put into operation, and as I am of opinion that the reduction of the staff of the Town Clerk's Department as now recommended will further increase Mr. Keane's duties and responsibilities, he should receive additional remuneration. Mr. Keane has over $18\frac{1}{2}$ years' service, and his present salary is £625, rising by annual increments of £25 to a maximum of £750 per annum. I recommend that he be advanced on his existing scale by three special increments, bringing his salary to £700 per annum, but that his status and present incremental date should remain unaltered.

All the above recommendations should date from the 1st September, 1927. The financial effect of the various recommendations will, during the next five years, be a saving of £5,425.

IRISH EX-SERVICE MEN.

£11,500 FOR RELIEF OF DISTRESS.

RESPONSE TO LORD HAIG'S APPEAL.

On August 4th Lord Haig made an appeal for distressed ex-Service men in Southern Ireland.

Sir Michael O'Dwyer has written to Lord Haig from Kingstown, County Dublin, enclosing a cheque for £10 towards his appeal, the present total of which now stands at approximately £11,500.

Sir M. O'Dwyer says that the inquiries he has made during the past few weeks in Ireland show that the urgency of the case is, if possible, even greater than appears in the Field-Marshal's appeal. The letter continues:—

"In addition to the trade and agricultural depression, common to Great Britain and Ireland, the ex-Service men in the Free State and their families are hard hit by these special circumstances:—

"(1) They are not in a position to claim priority in employment from the Free State Government, who not unnaturally are disposed to think first of their own active supporters.

"(2) The withdrawal of the British troops from the Free State and the disbandment of the Southern Irish Regiments have not only deprived them of a military career (the Free State Army can only absorb a comparatively small number), but have also seriously reduced the means of livelihood of these men and their dependents.

"(3) In a poor country where the struggle for existence among all classes is a hard one, private generosity cannot adequately cope with a problem of such dimensions.

"Your appeal to the British public has, therefore, been most timely, and all who appreciate the gallant spirit in which over 200,000 Irish soldiers came forward in the time of crisis, while some 50,000 made the supreme sacrifice, will, it is hoped, join in making the response worthy of the cause."

Sunbathing without Sunburn

There's nothing like sunbathing for the health—at least nothing like it when once the tender skin has been made safe from the sting and bite, the unsightly reddening and blisters of sunburn. Then—and only then—is one free to bask luxuriously in the golden sunlight, letting it flood your whole being with its life-giving rays. Prepare yourself, therefore, to take advantage of this benefit. Skin-health and protection are yours to command; the secret of them lies in Pond's Two Creams.

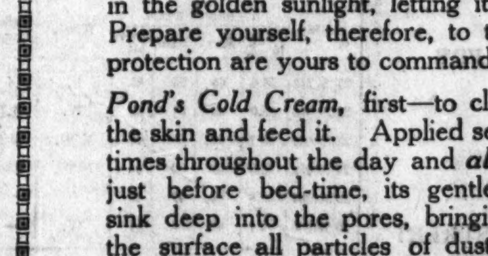

Pond's Cold Cream, first—to cleanse the skin and feed it. Applied several times throughout the day and always just before bed-time, its gentle oils sink deep into the pores, bringing to the surface all particles of dust and dirt, which vanish once and for all when the cream is wiped away with a soft cloth.

Then, for protection, should come Pond's Vanishing Cream. Used whenever necessary (and always after each application of Pond's Cold Cream, save the last one at night) it is essential to your comfort since it not only guards the skin and acts as a perfect base for powder, but renders it silk-smooth as well—making it beautiful alike to sight and touch.

From all Chemists and Stores. In handsome opal jars, 1/3 and 2/6. In tubes, 7½d. (for handbag) and 1/-. Pond's Cold Cream also in extra large jars 5/-, and in extra large tubes 2/6.

FREE SAMPLES.
J. and W. C. Gaw (Dept. 50), 44 Temple Bar, Dublin, will send a free sample tube of both Creams.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—An anti-cyclone off our south-west coasts will probably extend slowly eastwards, and maintain mainly fair weather in the South. Secondaries to a deep depression near Iceland will cause occasional rain in the North, where the south-west winds will blow strongly at times.

North-West Ireland.—South-westerly winds, perhaps reaching a gale; fair to dull; occasional rain; moderate temperature.

North-East Ireland.—South-westerly winds, strong at times; occasional rain in most places; visibility poor at times; moderate temperature.

South-East and South-West Ireland.—Moderate to fresh south-westerly winds; visibility fair to dull; perhaps slight local rain; moderate temperature.

South-West Seaboard.—Moderate to fresh south-westerly winds; fair to dull; perhaps slight local rain; visibility moderate to good; sea moderate to rather rough.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Wind south to south-west, strong at times; occasional rain; visibility moderate to good; sea rather rough.

North-West Seaboard.—South-westerly wind, a gale at times; intermittent rain; visibility poor at times; sea rough.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1927.

IRELAND.

Party meetings were held in Dublin yesterday in connection with the general election campaign.—(Page 7.)

In the High Court, Dublin Castle, yesterday, Mr. Justice Hanna refused an application for a conditional order of habeas corpus on behalf of Edward O'Reilly, of Goold's Cross, Co. Tipperary, who was detained in Mountjoy Prison awaiting trial on the following charges: (1) Murder of Guard Hugh Ward, (2) conspiracy with others not in custody to murder Guard Ward, and (3) robbery under arms.—(Page 5.)

Mr. Hernon, one of the Dublin City Commissioners, recommends that the Town Clerk (Mr. J. J. Murphy), who is to be Chairman of the new Electricity Supply Board, shall be retired from the position of Town Clerk on a pension of £1,000 a year.—(Page 5.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

It is understood that an agreement has been reached by the French and British authorities regarding the reduction of the Rhineland armies of occupation.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At Gatwick yesterday Blacon won the August Handicap.—(Page 12.)

At Bogside Little Red Riding Hood won the Bogside Handicap.—(Page 12.)

FINANCIAL

The Treasury bill rate was 1-16 lower at 4 5-16 per cent. Credits were in ample supply, and borrowers over the night were accommodated at 3 per cent. down to 2½ per cent. Discount rates were steady.—(Page 10.)

Dublin Stock Market fluctuated mildly. Courtaulds improved.—(Page 10.)

The Oath of Allegiance.

A society "for the prevention of unjustifiable ridicule of the Irish race" has been formed, and has made its first demonstration at a cinematograph entertainment in New York. Ridicule, even when it is well deserved, is less odious than contempt. At this time an Irish political party has made its country contemptible in the eyes of the world, but no society seems to be working for the removal of the slur. Certain principles of honour and decency hold sway in all Christian lands, and one of them enforces the sanctity of an oath. It is recognised that even the somewhat loose morality of politics must stand upon an irreducible basis of truth. For five years Mr. de Valera paid the devoutest homage to the sanctity of oaths, and while, morally, his consistency was admirable, politically and economically it was disastrous. So deep was his conviction that no man ought to swear an unfelt allegiance that, in his campaign against the oath which debarred his party from entrance to Dáil Eireann, he plunged his country into bloodshed and brought it to the verge of bankruptcy. To-day his scruples of those years survive as a mill-stone round the neck of the Free State taxpayer. It is, however, the only form in which they survive. Suddenly, a few weeks ago, under the solvent of the Government's Electoral Amendment Bill, they melted out of moral existence. Mr. de Valera discovered that political perjury, after all, was not a crime. He and his party took the oath by which they did "solemnly swear true faith and allegiance to the Constitution of the Irish Free State as by law established," and fidelity to "His Majesty King George V., his heirs and successors by law." At the same time Mr. de Valera, whose declared aim is the destruction of the Free State Constitution, professed to clear his soul with a public statement that his party regarded the oath as an "empty formula." By this action he struck a blow at the whole world's conception of truth and honour—and struck it in a country where, by the testimony of Churches and Law Courts, the sin of perjury is peculiarly prevalent. Yet this man, daring still to pose as an arbiter of political morals, describes the Government's decision to dissolve Parliament as "sharp practice." Has the country begun to realise that, if it imposes no veto, the performance of the "empty formula" will be repeated in the near future? On the 10th or 11th October those candidates of Fianna Fáil who will have secured election to the new Dáil will swear "solemnly" an oath that they will refuse to keep. Mr. de Valera's credit has gone, and the country's credit will follow if it twice tolerates this disgraceful act. The first scandal took it by surprise. The second will be committed with the full foreknowledge of the whole electorate, and, as we must assume, with the connivance of every elector who gives his vote to Mr. de Valera's party. Things even more precious than the Free State's peace and economic wealth will be at stake on the 15th September.

Problems for Geneva.

Next week Sir Austen Chamberlain will leave London for the meetings of the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva. The Free State Government, which was to have been represented by President Cosgrave in his capacity as Minister for External Affairs, will send Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., Attorney-General, who will be accompanied by two permanent officials; and the Irish delegation will be completed by Mr. MacWhite, the permanent representative of the Saorstát at Geneva. If the session of the Assembly continues until the Irish general election is over, President Cosgrave may find time to attend its final stages in person; but the political situation in the Free State is so uncertain that he has been unable to make any definite plans. This autumn's meeting of the League is likely to be of the greatest importance. The official agenda is not very exciting, being confined to such matters as the treatment of Hungarian minorities by Rumania; but there is little doubt that big issues will be decided behind the scenes. The Council of the League of Nations works chiefly through the medium of unofficial conversations. Sir Austen Chamberlain, Dr. Stresemann and M. Briand have a habit of resolving their differences over a cup of tea or a glass of wine in a café, and, while this caucus system is resented by some of the other members of the League, it has proved to be more efficient than the open diplomacy that compels every problem to be thrashed out in public. The Locarno pact never would have been concluded if its every detail had been discussed at length by the representatives of minor States which it did not concern.

On this occasion the "big three" will be concerned with two main problems, both of which are of vital importance to Germany. Herr Stresemann is going to Geneva with instructions from his Government to bring the question of the occupation of the Rhineland to a head. Strictly, the League of Nations has no direct interest in the occupation problem, which is a matter between Germany and her conquerors in the war; but the German Government takes the view that, if the Allies refuse to make the required concessions, the arbitration of the League must be invoked. Sir Austen Chamberlain, while naturally sympathising with the French point of view, realises that Germany has certain moral claims on the support of His Majesty's Government, inasmuch as he himself was a party to the Locarno agreement and was largely instrumental in securing for Herr Stresemann the promises from M. Briand which have not yet been fulfilled. He will be compelled, therefore, to do everything in his power to induce the French representatives to make some effort to meet the German claim. Undoubtedly, the French Army of Occupation is too large. There is no longer any real excuse for the maintenance of a force of 56,000 men on the Rhine, and the suggestion that it should be reduced to, say, 40,000 seems to be very reasonable. Germany cannot be treated permanently as a defaulter, especially as her entrance to the Council of the League of Nations places her in a position of equality with all the other Powers of Europe. Marshal Foch's attempt to stereotype the conditions that followed the armistice cannot be reconciled with the Locarno pact.

The other problem presents many difficulties; for it raises one of the most controversial issues in post-war politics. Germany demands a seat on the Permanent Mandates Commission which supervises the administration of those colonies that formerly were in the possession of the Central Powers. By virtue of her membership of the League Council she is entitled to representation on this Commission, but the objections to her interference in such a delicate matter need no elaboration. Germany is extremely anxious to secure the return of some of her old colonies or, at least, to be entrusted with a mandate for their administration by the League. The presence of a German on the Mandates Commission, therefore, would create a most uncomfortable atmosphere, and the French Government makes no secret of its opposition to such a move. On the colonial question Germany is likely to have the active support of Italy. In a speech some days ago Marshal Caviglia, a leading Italian general, declared that Italy must make common cause with other nations which at present are excluded from colonial possessions. Signor Mussolini, despite his recent prohibition of emigration from Italy, realises that, with the present increase in the Italian birth-rate, the country's population soon will become so large that the natural resources of the land will be unable to support it. Germany is in a like case. Her population, too, is increasing, and she has no outlet for her surplus. The discussions at Geneva concerning the mandates, therefore, are likely to be of considerable importance. On this issue Britain and France probably will be united, but the German and Italian Governments will be a formidable coalition.

The Chemistry of Grass.

The disposition which farming communities once showed to ridicule scientific research is giving way to more enlightened views. In Ireland the farmer takes more interest than formerly in the ultimate, as apart from the immediate, destination of his products, listens with a friendlier ear to technical instructors, and is prepared to agree that money devoted to laboratories may be well spent. Few agricultural subjects are of more importance to a stock-raising country than that which is known technically as "the mineral contents of natural pastures." Major Walter Elliot, M.P., Chairman of the Research Grant Committee of the Empire Marketing Board, discusses in The Times the question why stock deteriorates on certain pastures and flourishes on others that apparently are just as good. This is a matter which well may engage the attention of the Empire Marketing Board. Great Britain is the world's largest importer of agricultural products, and the Empire produces to-day about two-fifths of the world's cattle. Heavy losses in farm animals have been incurred in New Zealand and Australia which might have been avoided if more attention had been given to the quality of pastures at an earlier time. In many cases the modern, rapidly-growing type of animal has not adapted itself well to the new countries. Grass-eating animals, left to themselves, instinctively seek out pasturage rich in the so-called inorganic elements. Serious consequences ensued when they were prevented from roving by the artificial conditions imposed by the stockmen; but a decided improvement was noted when the soil was fertilised with certain minerals. New Zealand contains large areas of seemingly first-rate pasture on which cattle and sheep will not thrive. Investigation showed the cause to be a deficiency of iron in the soil. In the Falkland Islands the rearing of sheep has become increasingly difficult—a fact due, it is thought, to the extraction of essential minerals from the soil by grazing. Major Elliot's moral is that not only is it necessary to have good pasture at the outset, but care must be taken to maintain it.

"Gross-Ups."

The march of progress in the film world continues. The most recent cinematograph invention is called the "gross-up"—not a felicitous effort in nomenclature, but when a "gross-up" first was shown in New York it is reported that the spectators testified their astonishment by shouts of joy. During the exhibition of a film the picture, at some thrilling moment, suddenly swells to a great size and appears to advance over the heads of the orchestra. Henceforward we shall be able to understand more approximately than hitherto the sensations of a man who is about to be run over by a train, or of the victim who sacrifices himself before the car of Juggernaut. Thus the general love of adventure and the desire for security alike are gratified. This device, which is described as the "magnascope," will be a useful addition to the tricks of the film trade, if producers can be trusted to use it with moderation. Many of the cinematograph tuchuns, however, still fail to realise that the development of a story in the "movies" is not aided by flamboyant and irrelevant displays of technique. By far the most intelligent use of technical processes in late years has been made by producers in Europe who obviously are men of education and regard their work not only as a business, but as an art. The prospect of a surfeit of forty-feet "gross-ups," in which a Gargantuan face would move forward upon us out of the darkness, is not alluring. We should prefer our villains to remain life-size and our heroines not to resemble Gulliver's nurse in Brobdingnag.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The King had excellent sport on his last day's shooting with the Earl of Sefton, when the Tarnbrook Fells afforded an abundant supply of grouse. His Majesty left Abbeystead yesterday evening for Balmoral, and drove to Bay Horse to join the Scottish express.

Murphy, received the guests, who numbered over two hundred. The rooms were beautifully decorated by Miss Jameson, of Nassau street, the scheme for the supper tables being worked out in Mr. Murphy's racing colours. Mr. Murphy races on a large scale in Madras district, most of the important events there, including the much-coveted Governor-General's Cup, having been annexed by his stable through the aid of horses directly imported by him from Ireland. Miss Billie Weiner, whose orchestra was largely augmented for the occasion, supplied a most excellent programme.

The marriage arranged between Mr. Hugh T. G. Massy-Westropp, B.A., L.R.C.P. and S.I., of Dany-Craig, near Bridgend, Glamorgan, and Miss Gladys Weatherill, B.A., M.B., B.Ch., of "Abercorn," Sydney Parade avenue, Dublin, will take place at All Souls' Church, Langham Place, London, in September.

LONDON LETTER.

THE FREE STATE ELECTION.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, FRIDAY NIGHT.

General satisfaction is expressed here with Mr. Cosgrave's promptitude in making the utmost of the swamping majorities which the Dublin by-elections have accorded him. His prescience in immediately turning to account such an unmistakable vote of confidence in the Free State Government is widely applauded, and universally recognised in this country as characteristic of the President's celerity to act. It is hoped that Dublin's judgment will be endorsed emphatically elsewhere in the constituencies, and that Mr. Cosgrave will be returned to power with a sufficient majority to ensure the Free State's freedom from electioneering for the full period to come. Two general elections cannot be held in quick succession without serious interruption of a country's commercial and business activities, and it must be the earnest desire of all worthy of the name of patriot to see next September's polls shape towards giving the Free State a stable Government which can devote itself to the betterment of national economic conditions.

The Indian Army.

"Indianising" the Indian Army is presenting a more formidable problem than its advocates contemplated. If one draws a rough line across the centre of the country, say, from Calcutta to Baroda, barely five per cent. of native recruits are enlisted from the population below it. Virtually all recruitments are from the martial races of the Northern territories, and even then come from remarkably small, restricted areas. It is from these keen soldiers that much of the opposition to the scheme arises. They fear the commissioning of the better class of Southerners, of whose fighting qualities they are not enamoured and whose fitness for leadership they gravely doubt. The Skeen Committee reported in favour of the establishment of an Indian Sandhurst for training native officers, but both in India and here the project receives only half-hearted support.

"Navy Week."

"Navy Week," organised at Portsmouth in aid of naval charities, was rather disappointing, as the net proceeds failed to realise more than a little over a couple of thousand pounds. Given better weather, which, on the whole, was execrable, attendance aboard the various representative war craft that were open to inspection probably would have been doubled. Visitors were fortunate in seeing in the port the two new battleships, Nelson and Rodney, which represented £14,000,000 of British capital. Though 6,000 tons less than the 41,000 of the great warship Hood, the latest additions to the Navy, gun for gun, easily could over-match her. Nelson has become flagship of the Atlantic Fleet, and Rodney is about to begin official trials when she is handed over from the contractors.

A Generous Gift.

Both the National and the Tate Galleries will be enriched by several valuable paintings which have been left to the nation under the will of Henry Alexander Gordon, fourth Earl of Effingham, who died in May last. To the former the late Peer bequeathed "The Constable de Bourbon," by Titian; "Lord William Howard," first Baron Howard of Effingham, by Zucchero, and "Thomas Howard," third Duke of Norfolk, by Holbein. The Tate Gallery becomes possessed of "Mehemet Ali," Viceroy of Egypt, the last picture painted by Sir David Wilkie, R.A., signed and dated by him at Alexandria, May 14th, 1841, and "Sir Roger de Coverley and the Gipsies," by C. R. Leslie, R.A., the latter being from the Marquis of Lansdowne's collection. The approximate value of the gift to the National Gallery is £40,000.

A Farming Scheme.

An attractive opening is offered by the South Australian Government to boys from the mother country who are agriculturally bent. The scheme ensures a thorough farming apprenticeship under Government supervision, with liberal wages, followed by financial or other assistance to enable them to farm on their own account. Arrangements have been made to receive one hundred boys every month, starting from November, and apprenticeship will be to the Government, and not to individual farmers. At the end of three years the lads become eligible for an advance of £300, to enable them to take up land and to secure sufficient stock and implements to enable them to make a start for themselves.

The Music Halls' Decline.

Moss Empires announce a big change, which means another heavy blow to the "variety" stage. No fewer than thirty-four music-halls under the control of that organisation are to be converted into cinema theatres. For years the cinema has been encroaching with irresistible force on the older form of entertainment, whose audiences have steadily drifted away to the pictures. As a result, there has been considerable privation in the "profession," which, unfortunately, has never been too well endowed with those attributes of prudence that dictate provision for a rainy day. A direct effect of the popularity of the cinemas is seen in the Variety Artists' Federation's remarkable drop of membership in the last seven years. It has fallen by, roughly, seventy per cent., and the new policy now announced promises even leaner times.

County Cricket.

Lancashire, who were last year's champions, fell to-day from the proud position of top of the County Cricket Championship table, suffering an unexpectedly bad beating at the hands of Sussex. This was Lancashire's first defeat during the present season—in fact, since June of last year, when the team succumbed to Leicestershire. Notts have been making big bids for premier position, and achieved their ambition this afternoon by winning against Glamorgan. They, however, still have to meet two more counties, while Lancashire start their last match to-morrow.

Oysters.

Colchester reports that native oysters again will be comparatively scarce and dear, but of good quality. The season begins on Thursday, and, as usual, will be inaugurated by the opening of the famous Byfleet fisheries off Brightlingsea, which belong to the Corporation of Colchester, with the ancient gin and gingerbread ceremony. The shortage is still due to the mysterious mortality which prevailed in the beds some seven or eight years ago, and it will be long before the effects of that epidemic have been overcome.

Swimming the Channel.

The latest aspirant to Channel swimming honours is John Fellowes, a Rotherham bricklayer, who is now training at Dover. He will try to swim from England to France, a feat that has only been accomplished three times—namely, by Captain Webb in 1875, Burgess in 1911, and Sullivan in 1923. Others who are in training for the England to France attempt are Mrs. Corson and Norman Derham, both of whom have succeeded in swimming the Channel in the opposite direction. It is a pathetic sight to see this aqueous band, apparently hoping against hope that the weather will give them a chance to start.

The Duke of Connaught is in residence at Bagshot Park, where he has entertained several house parties lately. His granddaughter, Princess Ingrid of Sweden, is staying there at present, but will shortly return to Sweden.

GENERAL ELECTION PLANS.

FEWER CANDIDATES DUE TO SHORTAGE OF FUNDS.

PARTY MEETINGS.

OPINIONS IN THE COUNTRY ON MR. COSGRAVE'S BOLD STROKE.

WHAT WILL THE FARMERS DO?

NOMINATIONS—SEPT. 3rd. POLLING—SEPT. 15th.
NEW DAIL MEETS—OCT. 11th.

ALL the political parties were taken by surprise by the suddenness of the dissolution of the Dail, and yesterday many important conferences were held in Dublin to discuss plans for fighting the election.

Conventions are being held in many country districts to-morrow to select the candidates who will be nominated to-day week. The number of candidates at the election last June was 375, but present indications suggest that on this occasion the figures will be nearer 300 than 400.

None of the parties has sufficient funds to waste on forlorn hopes, and they will probably concentrate on those constituencies where the results of previous elections encourage them to believe that their candidates have a reasonable chance of success. In this connection it is significant that reports from a number of centres suggest that there may be an understanding between the Government party and the Farmers' party. It will be remembered that the plan to merge the two groups was rejected just before the last election, and that Mr. Gorey, the chairman of the Farmers' party, resigned and stood as a Government candidate for Carlow-Kilkenny.

The Government party, last night, issued an appeal for funds, and, it is understood that the treasuries of most of the other parties are depleted, owing to the inroads made on them at the last election.

PARTIES' PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN.

FROM OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

That the Government scored heavily against the Opposition, in securing an immediate dissolution of the Dail, was everywhere admitted yesterday, and even among Mr. de Valera's followers one found a certain grudging admiration for the astuteness which gave the Ministry its present advantage.

Consternation is the only word to describe the feeling with which the different Opposition groups heard the news of the dissolution. They foregathered early at their respective quarters yesterday and discussed the situation for many hours. While Mr. Johnson was conferring with the National Executive of the Labour Party, and Mr. de Valera was closeted with the members of his Standing Committee, members of the Cumann na nGaedheal Party were meeting in the Shelbourne Hotel to complete their plans for the appeal to the electorate, to arrange for the holding of constituency conventions to instruct their organisers as to the lines on which the forthcoming campaign should be conducted, and to suggest points on which speakers might concentrate for effective propaganda purposes.

A QUICK DECISION.

Not all the members of the Ministerial Party, I am told, were aware of the Government's intention to dissolve on Thursday; indeed, it is doubtful if Ministers themselves had, up to Tuesday, contemplated so early an appeal to the country. A fortnight ago opinion in the Cabinet was divided as to the wisdom of an election before November, and so far as I can gather, the decision to advise an immediate dissolution in the event of big majorities in County Dublin and South City Divisions was reached only three days ago.

What the result of this election will be it is well nigh impossible to anticipate. Undeniably the Government has got every advantage that it could want. The coffers of its opponents are depleted as a result of the June contest. Their unsuccessful attempt to oust President Cosgrave's Ministry a couple of weeks ago has very largely discredited the Labour Party, the National League, and, to a lesser extent—and with another class of the electors—Fianna Fail.

The general belief at the moment is that Captain Redmond's Party will suffer a total eclipse, and that both Labour and Fianna Fail will lose seats to the Government.

LABOUR CANDIDATES.

The Labour Party intends to nominate, roughly, the same number of candidates that it put forward at the last election. On that occasion, however, the result of the polling proved that the distribution of Labour aspirants was faulty. In some constituencies where little more than a single quota was available two or three candidates went forward, while in others, where Labour men topped the poll with substantial surpluses, sufficient advantage was not taken of the party strength.

This time, I understand, a more judicious selection will be made, and, as there will be no time to consult the local labour organisations, the choice and distribution of candidates probably will rest with the Central Executive of the party. Mr. R. J. Mortished, Assistant Secretary of the party, who was defeated at the last election in North Dublin, may be nominated for Limerick.

THE FARMERS' PARTY.

The position of the Farmers' Party is precarious. There is virtually no difference now between Mr. Baxter's policy and the policy of Cumann na nGaedheal, and, unless some arrangement for fusion is made, it is quite possible that the Farmers will lose seats to the Government as well as to Fianna Fail.

The Independents are in a curious position. Several of them who habitually vote with the Government may decide to abandon their independence and join Mr. Cosgrave's party. One of these, I am informed, is Major Bryan Cooper, and another is Mr. A. Hazlett, who sits for Monaghan. Dr. Myles Keogh and Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., also may decide to cross the Rubicon, but as these four members probably would vote with the Government in a vital division, their conversion to Cumann na nGaedheal would make no real difference to the Ministry's majority in the new Dail.

The whole tendency seems to be towards two big parties, with the Labour Party in the centre. The real struggle at the election will be between Cumann na nGaedheal and Fianna Fail. All the smaller parties, especially Sinn Fein, are likely to suffer, but the issue will be decided by the number of seats which Mr. Cosgrave's party will succeed in winning from Mr. de Valera. The latter has made his plans for the election with remarkable speed. His party was in session all day yesterday, and decided to summon conventions in all the constituencies for to-morrow, when candidates will be chosen. It is probable that at least eighty-five nominees will be put forward, and the party organisers express their confident belief that, despite the fact that they have been taken at a disadvantage, the Fianna Fail candidates will at least maintain the party's present Parliamentary position.

In this connection it is interesting to speculate on the political future of Mr. Patrick Belton, who at the last election was returned in County Dublin as a Fianna Fail candidate and occupied a high place at the polls. Mr. Belton, who anticipated the party's decision to take the oath a fortnight earlier, was expelled from the party, and presumably will not be adopted as an official candidate.

THE UNIVERSITIES.

It is not known at present whether or not there will be a contest in Dublin University, where at the last election Mr. Bolton C. Waller made an unsuccessful effort to capture one of the three seats. This time the three sitting members—Professor Thrift, Sir James Craig and Mr. E. H. Alton—propose to go forward on a common ticket.

In the National University Mr. McGilligan is certain of re-election; but, unless there is a multiplicity of candidates, the return of the non-serving member, Mr. Arthur Clery, is unlikely. Professor William Magennis may decide again to contest this constituency, but I understand that it is more likely that he will go forward as an Independent candidate for one of the city seats. The Fianna Fail Party would welcome his adherence to its group, but Mr. Magennis is not likely to commit himself to any party's programme.

LABOUR'S POLICY

APPROVED BY TRANSPORT WORKERS.

At a special meeting of the Dublin District Council of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, representing seven branches of the Union in Dublin, a resolution was passed approving of the attitude of the Labour Party in the Dail on the motion of "no confidence" in the Executive Council.

Labour candidates at the general election were assured of support.

[The position in the constituencies is reviewed on Page 11.]

FIVE DAILS IN NINE YEARS.

EARLY HISTORY OF A YOUNG STATE.

Five Dails have come and gone in nine years; some of them had stormy and some quite humdrum periods, but none had a shorter life than the fifth Dail, which closed with the Governor-General's proclamation of Thursday night.

The eclipse of the old Irish Parliamentary Party in the fateful election of 1918 made way for the first Dail. Sinn Fein swept the country, but its members declined to take their seats at Westminster. Instead they elected to set up a Government in Dublin. This was the inception of An Dail—the forerunner of the popular legislative assembly that we know to-day.

UNOPPOSED RETURNS.

In 1920 there was passed in the House of Commons the Government of Ireland Act, which provided for the establishment of Parliaments in Northern and Southern Ireland, and in the following year a general election was held in Ireland at which all the Sinn Fein representatives were returned unopposed, and in the Southern area of the country the Government of Ireland Act was ignored, Dail Eireann carrying on as the de facto Government of the country. Then followed one of the darkest periods of Irish history, and only now has the country recovered from the loss and suffering involved then and during the period of civil war by which it was succeeded. A welcome truce to the Anglo-Irish struggle came in the same year, when the negotiations which had been opened ended in the Treaty settlement of December, 1921. It was only after bitter and protracted debates that the Dail ratified the Treaty, which subsequently became the keystone of the Irish Free State's written Constitution.

The pact election of 1922 is the next milestone in the country's fight for constitutional government. There was disagreement among the parties to the pact, and finally the country was plunged into civil war, which lasted well into the year 1923. The deaths of Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins were the outstanding events of this terrible period, but the country will not readily forget the hundreds of young Irishmen, many of whom had seen service in the world war, who lost their lives.

THE ARMY MUTINY.

The fourth Dail, which was elected in 1923, had many problems to face, but none more formidable than the mutiny in the Army, which, however, was effectively quelled, a result that was due in great measure to the determination and firm handling of the situation by the late Minister for Justice. Then came the boundary crisis, in which many people saw "the end of all things." That crisis, too, was satisfactorily overcome. Through all this the Irish Government observed the Treaty in the spirit and the letter, and the statesmanlike qualities of its Ministers received nothing but praise from well-known politicians of all countries.

Crises arose from time to time, but the Government proceeded with its work apace. Indeed, if there was any complaint to be made at all, it was that the Government was forcing legislation through the Oireachtas, that it was too hurriedly passed to be thoroughly understood by deputies, and that much of it would consequently require amendment in the future.

THE SHORTEST DAIL.

It was in June, 1927, that the shortest Dail on record was elected. The new House met on the 23rd of that month. The Fianna Fail deputies arrived at Leinster House and "claimed their seats," but declined to take the oath and were not admitted. By August 12th they had changed their minds. They went to the Dail and took the oath and their seats after having publicly announced that the oath was an "empty formula."

The late Dail met on June 23rd and dissolved on August 25th—just thirty-three days. Actually the Dail sat for eighty-six hours during this period; but deputies were not idle. Since the House assembled the following Acts have been passed:—

The Appropriation Act.
The Currency Act.
The Public Safety Act.
The Courts of Justice Act.
The Electoral Amendment Bill.

This, briefly, is a sketch of some of the chief events of the first five Dails.

What, one wonders, will the sixth Dail bring forth?

"TRICKY TACTICS."

CAPTAIN REDMOND AND THE DISSOLUTION.

FROM OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

In a statement to me last night Captain W. A. Redmond, leader of the National League, said:—

"The action of President Cosgrave and his colleagues in thus suddenly "rushing" a general election is certain to be seriously resented in the country. It is so obviously an attempt at tricky tactics that those interested in public affairs will resent finding the business of the country upset by a transparent manœuvre designed to snatch a party advantage. Also the farmers, gravely pre-occupied with the task of endeavouring to save an indifferent harvest, will scarcely welcome so wanton an intrusion upon their time and attention.

"Mr. Cosgrave's manœuvre is based upon an apparent misconception of the figures at the two recent by-elections. In a statement published last Monday, referring to the non-participation of the Labour Party and of the Irish Nationalists in those elections, I said:—'The pending by-elections, therefore, will prove inconclusive as to the appeasement policy, however satisfactory they may prove to those on either side who are wedded to the faction fight.'

"I will now add that, under these conditions, the figures show rather meagre and unsuccessful results for the extremely artificial campaign started by the Cumann na nGaedheal and ex-Unionists in the hope of stampeding the country into supporting them. My conviction is that even less success awaits that campaign when it is extended to the country at large. It is not conceivable that with its record, which was so extensively canvassed and so severely judged at the recent general election, the present Government can be returned with a clear majority. It may even find its numbers still further diminished.

"The big issue now will be whether the Government shall be empowered to embark

THE RHINELAND ARMIES.

AGREEMENT BETWEEN FRANCE AND BRITAIN.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Friday.

I understand that the differences which had hitherto stood in the way of an agreement between the French and British Governments for a reduction of the Rhineland troops have been surmounted. The French Government accept in principle the British interpretation of the functions of the Armies of Occupation—namely, that their primary purpose is to form a guarantee for the German payments under the Dawes plan. The question of security has not been discussed.

The British Government has abandoned its view, that the Armies should be reduced by 14,000 men, and agrees to a reduction by 10,000 men only. At the same time the French point of view, that the reduction of French troops in the total should be limited to 5,500, so as not to alter the completeness of the covering army, has also been abandoned, and it is expected that France will agree to 8,000 as the number to be withdrawn.

The international character of the force is to be maintained, the proposal being that the British and Belgians should reduce their numbers each by approximately 1,000 men. There is good reason for believing that this is the final solution, and that its acceptance by the French Government will be announced before the Geneva meeting.

If the proposals are definitely adopted, the total numbers occupying the second and third Rhineland zones will be about 60,000.

GREAT ATLANTIC STORM.

PRAYERS ON A LINER: MANY INJURED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Friday.

Liners with well-nigh exhausted crews and grateful passengers arrived here to-day, after stormy passages across the Atlantic, which has been churned into fury by the hurricanes of the last few days.

Gales of a velocity ranging between eighty and one hundred miles an hour swept up mighty walls of water fifty feet high, which crashed on the decks and set great ships bobbing like corks.

The worst experience is reported by the Italian liner Martha Washington, which came into dock a day late, with 617 passengers from Mediterranean ports. The ship was struck by a hurricane on Tuesday night, and the gale increased in intensity all next day.

On Wednesday night nobody on board had any sleep, and the steerage passengers spent the time in prayer. Women wept hysterically as the heavy lurches of the ship became more terrifying, and all hatches were tightly battened down.

Sixty passengers were so bruised that they had to receive medical attention. The wireless aerials were swept away, but the operators successfully accomplished the dangerous task of replacing them in the fury of the gale with the decks awash.

NINE DEAD IN CANADA

£200,000 DAMAGE: 29 SHIPS WRECKED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, Friday.

Belated reports regarding Thursday's storm damage along the coasts of the maritime provinces indicate a total loss of life of at least nine persons, with property damage of approximately a million dollars. Telephonic and telegraphic communication in the affected districts has now been restored.

The storm is said to be the worst that has occurred for fifty-four years. Heavy damage has been done to the Nova Scotia apple crop.

Two small steamers, twenty-seven sailing or fishing vessels, and many small craft foundered or were wrecked on the shore, while fishermen along the coast suffered greatly by the loss of much gear.

100,000 INCAS IN REVOLT.

COMMUNIST PLOT?

TO DESTROY WHITE CIVILISATION.

BATTLES IN BOLIVIA.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BUENOS AYRES, Friday.

Despatches received here from La Paz, the capital of Bolivia, state that nearly a hundred thousand Inca Indians, descendants of the famous ancient tribes, are now in revolt in the territories of Potosi, Cochabamba and Sucre. The Indians are credited with the intention of endeavouring to destroy every vestige of the white man's civilisation, and are killing all whites and burning farm houses and residences everywhere.

Large numbers of troops have been despatched by the Bolivian Government from various garrisons, and reports state clashes with the Indians have already occurred. Despite their huge numbers, the Incas are no match for the military.

COMMUNISTS SUSPECTED.

The Inca tribes of Indians live in a wretched state compared to the times before the Spanish conquest. About 70 per cent. of Bolivia's population is made up of these Indians, a large part of whom devote their lives to serving the remaining 30 per cent. The present sudden return of the fighting spirit to the Incas is believed to be due to dissatisfaction over the division of land, coupled with instigation on the part of Communist agitators.

The Indians participating in the rebellion speak Quichua, the Inca tongue, and have taken to the warpath wearing quaint blankets, peculiar cloth ear-coverings, and funny little hats on the fore part of their heads.

The women, with babies carried on their backs by means of blankets slung about the neck, follow the warriors on their rampage. The movement has extended to the region about the City of Sucre, which is still regarded by the Indians as the capital of the Republic, although the Governmental departments function at La Paz.

General Gonzales Flor has been placed in charge of the forces. Several persons have been imprisoned as propagandists, since the rebellion is declared to be of a Communistic nature.

SUN WORSHIPPERS.

At the time of the Spanish conquest the Empire of the Incas comprised the present countries of Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia and part of Northern Chile. The Incas worshipped the sun, from which practice they have derived the name "Children of the Sun." Long before Pizarro and his Spaniards came to Peru they had domesticated the llama, which they used as a beast of burden. The Empire was a theocracy. The ruling Inca was not merely the representative of divinity; he was divinity itself. The Inca appointed the chief priest, and filled all the higher offices with members of his own family—the office of Inca was hereditary in the female line, a custom antithetical to that pertaining to Europe.

The early Incas built up an amazing civilisation; they based their prosperity on agriculture, using irrigation, terracing, fertilising and other "modern" methods. They built aqueducts and canals, some of which are still in existence.

Besides the llama, they domesticated the dog. From the hair of the llama they spun and wove fabrics for common use. The Incas excelled in architecture, and their structures are characterised by "simplicity, symmetry and solidity." They fitted huge stones, often of boulder size, together without mortar; but so exactly were these stones cut and fitted together that "the blade of a penknife could not be forced between them."

In music the ancient Incas had considerable proficiency, to judge from the number and variety of instruments they left behind them, although they had not reached the more advanced stage of stringed instruments.

RIVIERA FIRES.

SEAPLANE STATION DAMAGED.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
CANNES, Friday.

Several fresh fires have occurred in various parts of the Riviera, in spite of the extreme vigilance of patrols in all parts. Several acres of forest at Seranon, near Grasse, were destroyed yesterday, and further damage was only prevented by the efforts of 300 civilians. A large area of forest is now burning a short distance to the north of Tourettes les Vence (Alpes Maritimes), and troops have been rushed to the spot.

A serious fire broke out yesterday at the seaplane station of Antibes, the headquarters of the service to Corsica and North Africa, and damage was caused to the estimated extent of 400,000f. All the machines were saved, but there was great alarm, because of the proximity of large stores of petrol.

At the same time a serious fire started near the secondary aviation centre at Palyvestre, near Hyeres Plage, placing in danger the railway station and many villas and hotels. Over a thousand sailors were promptly at work and all buildings have been saved, but the fire is still burning.

A small outbreak was observed by gendarmes near the road between Tourettes-sur-Loop and Le Bar, and the description of a motor car leaving the scene was telephoned in all directions. The fire was quickly mastered, and the car, which belonged to a Nice resident, was found later in the day. The occupants declared that they knew nothing of the fire, and after their statements had been taken they were temporarily released.

There were also two small outbreaks at Le Cannet, near Cannes.

LATE NEWS.

MR. COSGRAVE'S DECISION.

COURAGEOUS AND WISE.

Mr. Cosgrave has taken a courageous and probably a wise step in advising the Governor-General of the Irish Free State to dissolve Parliament and to order a general election, remarks The Times editorially. The proclamation giving effect to his advice was published in Dublin on Thursday night, a few hours after the declaration of the results of the two by-elections in the capital. The connection between the two successes of the Cumann na nGaedheal Party and the dissolution is one of cause and effect. Since the remarkable division in the Dáil, when a historic abstention led to a totally unexpected tie, and the Speaker's casting vote gave the Government a majority of one, Mr. Cosgrave and his supporters have been anxiously awaiting the verdict of the electors of Dublin County and of the South City of Dublin. Dublin County was regarded as a safe seat, but the City constituency had returned the late Madam de Markievicz, an inveterate enemy of the Government, at the head of the poll only last June. It was expected that the strong Labour vote would support the Republicans, and so, though the Cumann na nGaedheal had selected a very popular candidate to contest the election, the chances seemed in favour of the opposition. The loss of either of these seats would place the Government in a minority of one at the next meeting of the Dail, unless another deus ex machina, in the shape of an imitator of Alderman Jinks came to its rescue. In such a situation it must resign, and since its failure to secure a majority prevented it from seeking a dissolution of Parliament, office with the simulacrum of power would be assumed by a Labour-Nationalist combination dependent for support upon the inexperienced and incalculable Republicans of Fianna Fail. On the other hand, a victory in both constituencies would enable Mr. Cosgrave to dissolve Parliament at once and to declare a general election. As it happened, both by-elections went well for him. The Republicans increased their poll, but the Government gained a far greater increment of strength, and with this evidence of popular support for his policy, and a majority, however small, in Dail Eireann, the President of the Executive Council felt justified in appealing forthwith to the country.

From the tactical point of view, the Government's action appears to have been extremely well timed. It is true that the Cumann Party is short of funds, but this disability is shared by all the other parties, and by seizing the initiative its leaders have taken their opponents by surprise and compelled them to modify their plans. The Opposition parties will be forced to fight while the memory of recent events is fresh, while the prestige of the Irish Labour Party, and, even more, of Captain Redmond's National League, is still shaken, and while Mr. de Valera's reputation is clouded by his acceptance of the Oath of Allegiance as an "empty formula." Nor are the speeches recently delivered by some of the leaders of the Fianna Fail calculated to allay the anxiety which their past record justifies. Mr. de Valera has promised "work for all," but his Chief Whip, Mr. Frank Aiken, who was one of the principal Republican leaders in the Irish civil war, has made it so clear that the aim of the Republicans is not only "to abolish British rule" over the twenty-six counties of the Free State, "but over the six counties of Northern Ireland," that "war for all" would be a much safer promise, though a less alluring one. Mr. Johnson and Captain Redmond may continue to support Mr. de Valera after his Chief Whip has so obligingly announced the intentions of Fianna Fail, but many of their supporters may well refuse to follow their voyage in tow of the Republican destroyer. All these considerations confirm the impression that Mr. Cosgrave has chosen the best moment for his counter-offensive in the interests of his party. From a wider national standpoint, too, he seems to have acted wisely. The financial situation in the Free State is not likely to be improved by the perpetuation of a very unstable political situation. A State loan will be required before long. It certainly cannot be floated so long as the political situation remains fluid, while the supply of credit to private enterprise in Southern Ireland is likely to be restricted so long as there is any possibility of an attempt to carry out Mr. Aiken's programme.

JAPANESE DISASTER.

SEARCH FOR MISSING NAVAL MEN.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.
TOKIO, Friday.

Three cruisers, thirteen destroyers, and ten seaplanes have spent the day searching the scene of the collision between two cruisers and two destroyers twenty miles north-east of Mihonoseki, and have found neither survivors nor bodies.

The total casualties are now reported to amount to 120 all ranks, including an engineer warrant officer of the Warabi, who was rescued, but died of his injuries. He stated that the destroyer was making 38 knots when the collision occurred.

Prince Takamatsu, the Emperor's brother, who is a Sub-Lieutenant in the Kongo, remained up all night assisting in the rescue work. Prince Fushimi, Lieutenant (Torpedo) in the Naka, says that at the time of the disaster he was on the bridge about to give the order to fire a blank torpedo, when the collision threw him to the deck. The time was 11.25 p.m., the attack was at its height, and the night was pitch dark. Before anyone knew what was happening the Naka had rammed the Ashi at right angles.

The Emperor's representative will reach the Fleet to-night to express the Imperial sympathy. The Minister of Marine leaves for Maizuru to-morrow.

Admiral Kato, Commanding the Fleet, has issued a statement, in which he explains that the exercise during which the collision occurred was important and very dangerous. It has formed part of each year's Naval manœuvres. The speed of squadrons, he said, increases yearly, and the exercises have grown in intensity until they approach the risks of actual warfare.

"PRIDE OF DETROIT"

HARBOUR GRACE, Friday.

The airmen of the Pride of Detroit, William Brock and Edward Schlee, expect to start from here for London at daybreak to-morrow, thereby availing themselves of the fine weather following yesterday's storm. They report that they had ideal flying conditions when coming from Maine to-day. The aeroplane flew at an average speed of a hundred miles an hour.—(Reuter.)

AMERICAN MILLIONAIRE'S SON.

EARNED MONEY FOR TRIP TO EUROPE.

Mr. Thomas C. Threamor, the 18-year-old son of an American millionaire, arrived at Plymouth yesterday from New York, having made his first crossing of the Atlantic in a tourist third class cabin.

He is making his trip to Europe entirely on money that he has earned himself, without financial aid from his family.

VESSEL BURNED AT SEA.

FIRE CAUSED BY FALLING LAMP.

CREW RESCUED BY STEAMER.

Captain Sevastian Cruz and the crew, who were obliged to abandon the Portuguese schooner Aquia Acorcana, which was burned to the water's edge, 90 miles from the Scilly Isles, were landed at Liverpool yestereday evening by the ss. Tuscany. The schooner Aquia Acorcana, which was bound from the Azores to Glasgow, laden with whale oil, had struck a submerged object, and began to fill with water, and the crew took to the ship's boat, which they kept alongside.

Captain Cruz remained on the schooner six hours longer, hoping that she might be salved, but the upsetting of a lighted lantern set the vessel afire, and the captain was at last compelled to clamber down a rope ladder into a small boat.

CREW PICKED UP.

Catpain R. Jones, of the steamer Tuscany, bound from the Argentine to Liverpool, observing the smoke from the burning vessel, steered to the spot and picked up Captain Cruz and the crew from their boat. At this time there was a fresh wind and a rough sea.

Captain Cruz, speaking through an interpreter, said:—"We eencountered a strong north-west wind and high seas. Suddenly there was a shock beneath the keel, as if we had struck something. I ordered the ship to be sounded, and it was reported that water was pouring into her. All the hands worked at the pumps until exhausted, from 11 a.m. on August 22nd until midnight on August 24th, but it was quite hopeless, for the ship filled and became waterlogged.

CAUSE OF THE FIRE.

"As she was in danger of sinking the crew took to the boat, but I was anxious to stay in the Aquia Acorcana until the last. The gale did not moderate, but I remained for eight hours searching the sea for aid; then, owing to the falling of a lantern, fire broke out on board. There was nothing that I could do, as the flames were spreading, and I finally abandoned my ship and left her burning fiercely."

Captain Cruz warmly thanked his rescuers. The shipwrecked men were taken to the Sailors' Home at Liverpool, where they were supplied with clothes by the Shipwrecked Mariners' Society. They will be sent to their homes by the Portuguese Consul.

RUSSIANS ORDERED OUT OF ENGLAND.

HOME SECRETARY'S STATEMENT.

The following official statement was issued by the Home Office in London last night:—In view of certain inaccurate and misleading statements which have appeared in the Press with reference to his decision requiring two of the directors of Messrs. the Russian Oil Products to leave the country, the Home Secretary wishes to make it plain that his decision involves no new departure in the policy of His Majesty's Government.

As has been stated frequently, the Government desire to place no obstacle in the way of trade between this country and Russia so long as those conducting that trade do not indulge in propaganda or conduct contrary to the interest of this country. The case of each Soviet employé in the various trade organisations is considered on its merits, and no Soviet citizen is required to leave unless the Home Secretary is satisfied, having regard to all the relevant circumstances, that it is in the public interest that a particular individual should not be allowed to remain.

The two directors of Messrs. the Russian Oil Products, to whom reference has been made, have been ordered to leave in accordance with this decision. It is not the policy of the Government to terminate the activities of any Soviet trading organisation which is engaged in trade to the benefit of this country, and is not otherwise harmful.

MOUNTAIN TRAIN ACCIDENT.

TWO ENGLISHWOMEN AMONG THE KILLED.

CHAMONIX, Friday.

Two London girls were reported to be among the killed in the Alps train disaster on Thursday. They were Miss Adrienne Matthews, of "The Briars," Fassett road, Kingston, and Miss Molly Green, of Park Lands, Surbiton.

The train, as reported in a message by Reuter's, was derailed when descending the Chamonix-Mer de Glace Railway into the Chamonix valley, and part of it fell into a ravine.

A London man, Mr. Oliver, and an Englishwoman, Miss Hilda Freedlund, were reported injured.

"We are hoping against hope," said a friend of Miss Molly Green, at Park Lands, last night to a Press Association representative. "The family have received no telegram or any other information. All we know is what we have seen in the papers. Mrs. Green is at present away on holiday. Miss Green was formerly employed at Benthall's Emporium, Kingston. She was 18 years of age, and she and her mother went to Surbiton from Ditton four and a half years ago."

Miss Matthews, who was 23 years of age, lived at "The Briars," Kingston, with her widowed mother. She was a dancing teacher in London. Both Miss Green and Miss Matthews were described as "fascinating girls, pretty and lovely dancers." It was Miss Green's first trip abroad.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

MANY SUBJECTS FOR CONSIDERATION.

WORK OF THE COUNCIL AND ASSEMBLY.

Reuter's Agency states that the agenda of the forty-sixth session of the Council of the League of Nations, which meets at Geneva next Thursday, is a long one, containing some twenty-five items. Disarmament and the question of the Rhineland occupation will be discussed, as also that of Germany and the mandates.

Japan will present the report on child welfare, Italy will deal with international relief, while Salvador will handle the report concerning communications and transit in times of crisis.

THE ASSEMBLY.

The eighth Assembly of the League, which meets on the 5th September, is expected to last for three or four weeks. The agenda presents nothing of a sensational character, but this Assembly may well prove to be one of the most practical ever held, by reason of the definite decisions that it is hoped may result. The Assembly will elect three non-permanent Council members to replace Belgium, Czecho Slovakia, and Salvador, whose terms of office expire in September, and consider the possibility of applying the principle of the single transferable vote and the system of proportional representation to these elections. The opening days will be devoted to a full-dress debate on the Secretary-General's report on the work of the Council and Secretariat during the past year.

The Assembly will take note of the results of the World Economic Conference, which met in Geneva in May last, as also of the work on the reduction of armaments. In particular, it will consider the text of the Draft Disarmament Convention, adopted on first reading by the Preparatory Disarmament Commission, this Commission being due to meet again sometime in November for the second reading.

THE COVENANT.

The Assembly will also have before it a number of reports on various aspects of Articles 11 and 16 of the Covenant, including methods of enabling the Council to act speedily in a crisis and to enforce the obligations of the Covenant, a study of the legislation enabling States to apply economic sanctions, the legal position arising from the enforcement in time of peace of the measures of economic pressure indicated in Article 16, particularly by a maritime blockade; and lastly, the question of the international supervision of the private manufacture of arms.

The Assembly will probably pass a general resolution on the obligation of all States' members to facilitate emergency meetings of the Council and will discuss the work of the League Committee on communications and transit on improving communications between Geneva and the capitals of the principal members of the League, the possibility of an aerodrome in Geneva for League use, and a League wireless station capable of reaching the greatest number of member States.

OTHER SUBJECTS.

Other items on the agenda include alcoholism; reports of the technical organisations of the League on economics, finance, transit, health, opium, protection of women and children, intellectual co-operation, slavery, the execution of foreign arbitral awards in commercial contracts, contributions in arrears, and the progressive codification of international law. This last item includes the question of the exploitation of the riches of the sea and the preservation of the whale.

Lastly, the Assembly will discuss the question of a possible reduction of the number of yearly Council sessions, a proposal which originally came from the British representative. The actual decision will have to be taken by the new Council after the election of the three new non-permanent members.

RECTOR'S SON FOUND SHOT.

CORONER'S FINDING OF SUICIDE.

A farm pupil, whose body was found in a plantation with the top of his head shot away, a double-barrelled sporting gun lying across his feet, and his right hand grasping a stick, was the subject of a Coroner's enquiry yesterday at Bickley Farm, Milverton, Somerset. The dead man, Bernard Paynter (22), was the son of the Rev. Canon Paynter, of Springfield Rectory, Chelmsford.

Canon Paynter stated that he had visited his son on Tuesday and found him quite happy on the farm. He had no trouble that witness knew of. Next morning he received a telegram from Mr. Naish, Bickley Farm, that his son had met with an accident.

Answering the Coroner, Canon Paynter said that he knew how the body was found, but believed that it was an accident.

The Coroner—"That is for me to say."

Evidence was given that on Tuesday evening the young man asked one of the farm workers for a couple of cartridges, saying that he wanted to go rook shooting next morning. He was last seen carrying a gun, walking towards a plantation. He failed to return that night. Search was made on Wednesday morning, with the result described.

The Coroner said that he regretted that the case had been heard without a jury, because it was a difficult position for him. He could find no evidence of accident, and must return a verdict that the young man took his life, and that there was no evidence as to his state of mind.

WOMAN IN ROYAL CANAL.

TIMELY RESCUE BY A MAN.

A middle-aged woman, who appeared to be in a hysterical state, was rescued from the Royal Canal near Binn's Bridge, Drumcondra, Dublin, last evening. After treatment in the Mater Misericordiæ Hospital she was detained by the police.

Her rescuer was a Mr. Leavy, who happened to be passing along the canal bank at the time.

FERMANAGH ABDUCTION CHARGE.

At a Special Court in Derrygonnelly yesterday, before Mrs. Stuthers, J.P., James Barton (30), a motor driver, from Derrygonnelly, was charged with abducting Charlotte Robinson, Derrygonnelly, a fifteen-year-old schoolgirl, against the will of her parents.

Defendant, who was arrested in Enniskillen, was remanded on bail.

Pigs, live weight, sold in Athlone yesterday at 48s. per cwt. The supply was small. No pigs were offered for sale in Moate, as farmers consider 48s. too small a price. At Bennettsbridge pig market the top price paid for fat pigs was 70s. per cwt. At Letterkenny Pork Market pork fetched 66s. per cwt., an increase of 4s. since last market.

NATIONAL BANK CLERKSHIPS.
Candidates should note that at the last exam. pupils of Rosse College, Stephen's Green, Dublin, gained 8 appointments.—(Advt.)

ENGLISH TRAIN WRECK.

INQUEST ON TWELVE VICTIMS.

It was stated at the Holmesdale Hospital last night that Miss Jessie Eldridge, Mrs. Parfitt, and Mr. W. K. Honeywell, who were among those injured in the accident that occurred to the London-Deal express on Wednesday, near Sevenoaks, were still gravely ill.

The Queen yesterday caused a telephone message to be addressed to the chairman of the Southern Railway Company—the Hon. Everard Baring—asking that her name be associated with the King's message of sympathy with those bereaved by the Kent railway disaster.

The Queen also had inquiries made at the Sevenoaks Hospital with regard to the condition of the injured.

The wreckage of the express was cleared away yesterday, and the line was re-opened for traffic.

At Sevenoaks yesterday the West Kent Coroner opened the inquest on the twelve persons who were killed in the accident. Their names were:—

Miss Helen Hatton, Renchester road, Dover.

Mr. F. W. Cheeseman, Balkara, Wilson road, Folkestone.

Miss Dorothy Eldridge, Arden road, Finchley.

Police Constable F. W. Haisell, London Metropolitan Police, and Mrs. Haisell (his wife).

Mr. E. G. F. Higginson, Sandgate road, Folkestone.

Mrs. N. H. Norton, Broadhurst Gardens, Hampstead.

Mr. Arthur Salisbury-Jones (62), of Cornwall Gardens, Kensington, and the White House, Dover.

Mr. Norman F. Self (18), of Southgate, Lydd, Kent.

Miss Alice Marion Young (32), of Tudor Cottage, near Elham, Canterbury.

Miss Jessie Christina Hatch (51), of Trinity Crescent, Folkestone.

Leslie Parfitt (7), of Sutton, near Deal.

After evidence of identification and medical evidence had been given, the Coroner adjourned the inquiry until October 28th.

The doctor stated that all the victims must have died without suffering pain.

OBITUARY.

SIR W. RAYNOR.

The death occurred yesterday, at the age of 72, of Sir William Raynor, of Reinwood, Huddersfield.

Sir William was prominent in the wool trade, and his firm, Messrs. Thomas Hirst and Co., was one of the largest dealers in foreign and Colonial wools. In 1908 he was Chairman of the Colonial Wool Buyers' Association. He had nearly fifty years' connection with Freemasonry, and retired from the office of Provincial Grand Master of West Yorkshire Freemasons last year, when he was succeeded by Lord Lascelles.

He was a leading figure in West Riding Liberalism, and did an enormous amount of work for the Northern Command and in helping to equip hospitals during the war. He was knighted in 1912.

MR. FRANCIS RICHARD RIDGEWAY.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. Francis Richard Ridgeway, for many years a prominent figure in the business life of the city of Dublin. The deceased gentleman, who was sixty-two years of age, had enjoyed good health up to a little over a week ago, but on Thursday, 18th inst., he was compelled to enter a nursing home in Dublin, where an operation was performed on the following Wednesday. His condition became worse, however, and he died at 9.45 last night.

Mr. Ridgeway's death will cause deep regret amongst a wide circle of friends. Although he did not come prominently before the general public, his activities as managing director of the well-known firm of Bewley, Sons and Co., wholesale wine and provision merchants, for a great many years, brought him into constant touch with the business men of the city and country, amongst whom he established a reputation for integrity and sound judgment. His work was his hobby, and when the premises of the firm in Henry street were destroyed during the 1916 rebellion, he lost no time in repining, but, with characteristic energy, immediately set about building the up-to-date premises in Abbey street which now house the headquarters of the firm.

Mr. Ridgeway was keenly interested in many charities and was a Governor of the Royal Hospital for Incurables, in the interests of which he was a very active worker. He was the fifth son of the late Henry Ridgeway, of Cloneygowan House, Portarlington, and one brother, the late Mr. Charles Ridgeway, was a member of the well-known Dublin firm, Anderson, Stanford and Ridgeway. The deceased gentleman is survived by his wife, son and daughter. On Monday next the funeral will take place from his residence, Doreena, Palmerston road, to Mount Jerome, at 11 a.m.

MR. ST. LOE STRACHEY.

Mr. J. St. Loe Strachey, formerly proprietor of the Spectator, died in London last night, aged 67. Mr. Strachey, who had been seriously ill since April, died peacefully in his sleep. He retired from the editorship of the Spectator at the end of 1925, but continued for some time his weekly articles. At one time he was editor of the Cornhill Magazine. He was also author of several books. He was the second son of Sir Edward Strachey, of Sutton Court, Somerset, and brother of Lord Strachey.

Secretary; Miss Kelly, and Miss Kenny, of Vergemount Hospital, who form the Executive Committee. The membership of the Guild is steadily increasing, and consequently its numerous activities are arousing a deeper interest in the members of the nursing profession, and being accorded stronger support. The Irish Nursing News, which is the organ of the Guild, is now completing its fifth volume.

Amongst the members present at the reception were:—Miss G. Owens, Miss Carney, and Miss Connolly, Dublin Union; Miss C. Egan, Miss G. O'Neill, Miss Carty, Miss Mahon, Miss Moloney, Miss Coyne, and Miss O'Donohoe, Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital; Miss Kelly, Miss Doyle, Jervis street Hospital; Miss McCarthy, Miss Joyce, Miss Brannigan, Miss Savory, Miss E. CHURCH REUNION.

INTER-COMMUNION AS FIRST STEP.

A MODERNIST VIEW.

Yesterday's proceedings of the Modern Churchmen's Conference at Bournville, Birmingham, were notable for an impressive speech by Dr. H. D. A. Major, Principal of Ripon Hall, Oxford. After declaring that those who were inclined to wait until all English Churchmen were agreed upon a practical policy would have to wait until doomsday, Dr. Major said that there were, in his view, four things that Anglican Modernists should resolve to do henceforth. He would sum them up as follows:—

(1)—We ought to admit to Holy Communion all communicants from other Christian bodies who desire to communicate at our altars, and we ought not to hesitate to communicate at theirs if they are willing to permit us to do so.

(2)—We ought to do all in our power to advance modern Christian education, both among our clergy and our laity, and also, if possible, inter-denominationally. By these means we shall find ourselves steadily breaking down innumerable walls of partition and eliminating countless inhibitions which are separating fellow-Christians from one another.

(3)—We ought always, and even at considerable cost to ourselves, to adopt and support a Church policy which puts first things first—love, truth, freedom, the fruits of the spirit; and second things second—positive institutions, rites, and customs.

(4)—We ought to co-operate heartily with those other Christian communions in philanthropic and humanitarian endeavours.

THE EARLY STAGES.

The first stages of reunion, said Dr. Major, would be marked by great diversity; but this would probably not be of very long duration in the presence of a rising standard of education, with increasing intercourse between separated Christians. It would merely mark a period of transition before something approaching agreement might be reached in connection with a common ministry and Church rites—making, of course, allowance for considerable variations within wide limits, both in the practice of those rites and in the precise significance attached to them. The policy proposed would seem very drastic to some, but that would be because they had lost sight of the essential nature of the Christian Church.

"As regards the stages of reunion, the Modernist would advocate that they began with inter-communion and proceeded through denominational co-operation to federation. Organic unity is necessarily the last stage, and would seem to demand submission and absorption on the part of the smaller denominations. It is an open question whether this organic unity is needful and desirable. It is a unity which finds its cohesive force in Christ, not in ecclesiastical definition and restriction, which the Modernist advocates and for which he strives—the Christian reunion which concerns itself far more with the centre than with the circumference."

LOOKING AHEAD.

When they looked outside the narrow limits of present-day Christendom and away towards the far horizon of the future, they felt, as Modernists, that some formula of faith very much simpler and very much more comprehensive was required than the two creeds; and something very much more authoritative.

The Modernist, when he was confronted with the problem of reunion of Christendom, recognised that while the present divisions among Christians were deplorable, scandalous, wasteful and weakening, yet there were kinds of reunion which would be found more detrimental to the influence of the Christian religion than were their present unhappy divisions. A reunion that barred future progress by forcing the Christian Church into a narrow, rigid ecclesiastical cul-de-sac would be a reunion of that type.

FOREIGN MISSIONS.

Sir Francis Younghusband, in a paper on the Modern Movement and Foreign Missions, said that there was a movement at work all over the world which was avowedly anti-religious and anti-Christian—anti-religious because it believed that modern science and modern psychology had superseded religion. The Modernist movement, which kept itself abreast with the latest advances in science and psychology, should be able to give an interpretation of Christianity which should be of the utmost value to foreign missions.

THE PORK INDUSTRY.

GALWAY AND THE ENGLISH MARKET.

Mr. P. McKenna, ex-T.D., Secretary of the Irish Pig Buyers' Association; Mr. E. Oppenheim, of Messrs. Warnar Bros., Central Meat Markets, Smithfield; and Mr. H. Walthius, Dublin, the Irish representative of the same firm, attended a conference of the County Galway Farmers' Association at Athenry, presided over by Mr. Marcus Daly, when it was decided to market pork direct from Galway to England, the first consignment to be despatched on September 30th.

Mr. Walthius said that he was willing to come to Galway to see that the pigs were killed and cured as they were required in England.

Mr. McKenna said that if pig producers in the country were to hold their own in the future they must study the wants of the consumer and produce pork and bacon to please the popular taste. The system of export was easily worked, and the middlemen's profits were saved.

Mr. Oppenheim said that Ireland had an unique opportunity of capturing the English market.

A committee was appointed to deal with the arrangements. Galway Urban Council has granted the use of their abattoir for the slaughtering of the pigs.

SKERRIES ROAD ACCIDENT.

COUNTY COUNCIL WORKER'S DEATH.

A motor accident in which Mr. John Warren, of 6 Bachelor's Walk, Dublin, who is one of the five selectors for the Irish International Rugby team, was involved, was investigated by Dr. Louis A. Byrne, Dublin City Coroner, and a jury, at the Mater Misericordiæ Hospital, Dublin, yesterday, when an inquest was held on the body of Michael Bryan (67), a widower, who was employed by the Dublin County Council, and died in the hospital on Wednesday last, following an accident on the Dublin-Skerries road.

A GREASY ROAD.

Mr. John Warren, 6 Bachelor's Walk, Dublin, the driver of the motor car, having been cautioned, gave evidence. He was returning from Skerries to the city, he said, and on coming around a bend he saw two men working at a cart on his side of the road. At the same time he saw two other carts and two motor cars on the other side of the road. He was about twenty yards away when he first saw them. Realising that he could not get through between the vehicles, he applied his brakes. The car skidded and hit the back of the cart. His wife was sitting beside him in the car and there was a lot of luggage in the rear. He was certainly not driving at twenty miles an hour then. His brakes were perfect. He "honked" his horn going round the bend. He had been driving for five years and never had an accident. The road was very greasy.

Mr. Joseph A. Ryan, County Surveyor to the Dublin County Council, said that when men were working on the roads notices were placed about 100 yards on either side as a warning to people. There was no need to put up warning notices when men were unloading tar barrels from a cart, as the work only occupied about five minutes.

The jury found according to the medical evidence, stating that the accident was one of the inevitable accidents, and adding a rider exonerating Mr. John Warren, the driver, from all blame, and recommending the relatives of the deceased man to his kind consideration.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

PARTIES AND THE STATE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—The results of the Dublin County and Dublin South elections are eminently satisfactory, and thanks are due to your journal for the clear and forcible manner in which you placed the issue before the electors. It was not a matter of merits or demerits of particular candidates, but rather of what they stood for. May I respectfully suggest that the time is opportune for a fusion of the present Government Party and the Farmers and Independents in a new organisation, so that all who stand for the upholding of the Treaty and Constitution may present a united front at the forthcoming general election?

If men like Mr. John Good and Major Bryan Cooper approach the Executive Council, I feel sure that an arrangement can be arrived at which will secure the desired end. I can quite appreciate the objection that the Farmers and Independents have to signing pledges, and this formula should not be required in the present instance. It should be sufficient for the Government to know that they could rely upon the support of the gentlemen who at present form the membership of those two existing parties on all vital matters affecting the Constitution and the safety and financial stability of the country. In my humble opinion, there is only room for three parties in this small country—Constitutionalists, Labour and Republican.—Yours, etc.,

"AN OLD DUBLIN CITIZEN."

Dublin, August 26th, 1927.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—Mr. Johnson's attempted parody of Abraham Lincoln is amusing. "The country must be governed," says Mr. Johnson, "not by and for a small section, but by the people and for the people." The suggestion, of course, is that Mr. Johnson leads the people, whereas what he does lead is a small, but highly organised, section of the people. Mr. Cosgrave and Cumann na nGaedheal represent more workers than the Labour Party, more traders than the Business Party, more farmers than the Farmers' Party, and ten times more of the followers of John Redmond than does his son.

What do we want these sectional selfish parties for anyhow? In Parnell's day his party was recognised as practically an Irish Labour Party; for Ireland was a poor country where most people had to work with hand or brain for a living, in contrast with England, where millions of families enjoyed inherited wealth. This separation of a section of the workers from the general body of the nation weakens them, weakens their fellow-workers, and weakens Ireland. It has been brought about by the teachings of two English Socialists, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Mortished, and one English Communist, Mr. Jim Larkin, who naturally enough regard their native country as the most perfect model for Ireland.

In the Ireland of to-day there is room for two and only two parties—those who are determined to work the Treaty and those who want to scrap it. If the people of the Free State have anything like the political acumen they are credited with, they will in the coming election give a good working majority either to Cumann na nGaedheal or to Fianna Fail. Voters for other parties are merely sectional and selfish triflers.—Yours, etc.,

CREAMERIES AND DIRTY MILK.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir,—The comments of District Justice Johnson in giving his decision on the charges of supplying dirty milk, or milk in dirty vessels, to creameries in the Tralee district, as reported in your paper of yesterday, are quite unfair and uncalled for. I do not see anything in the evidence, so far as it is reported, which would justify him in stating that "a conspiracy existed between creamery managers and milk suppliers to allow the latter to defeat the law by accepting dirty milk except an inspector happened to visit the creameries."

The creamery managers and their association have always advocated stringent measures for dealing with the evil of unclean milk. Fifteen years ago they endeavoured, unsuccessfully, to get legislation passed embodying provisions similar to those of the Dairy Produce Act under which the present prosecutions are being brought. Failing in this, the Irish Creamery Managers' Association endeavoured to arrange for agreements between creameries in districts whereby a supplier who left a creamery because his milk was rejected for uncleanliness or dirty cans would not be accepted as a supplier by another creamery. The difficulty during all that time (now to a great extent removed in the Counties of Limerick and Tipperary by the Government purchase of the proprietary creameries) was that, owing to the proximity of creameries to one another, if a manager rejected a supplier at one creamery, that supplier was accepted by another creamery, at which he would, in most cases, commence by supplying clean milk. Even since the Dairy Produce Act commenced to operate we have arranged similar agreements. Everyone, however, who has anything to do with these matters will appreciate the difficulty of getting local people to take sufficient interest in the efficient carrying out of such arrangements; hence the only effective method of dealing with the problem was prosecutions and fines.

Before the Dairy Produce Act was put in force managers fully appreciated the importance of rejecting unclean milk, and often did so, with the resulting loss of suppliers, who transferred their milk to neighbouring creameries. It is, however, probable that some managers now rely too much on the Department's inspectors and their powers to institute prosecutions, and place on these inspectors the entire onus of securing them a clean milk supply. I do not say that this prevails to any large extent, and in any case it would not justify the remark of Mr. Johnson, D.J., that there was a conspiracy between the creamery managers and suppliers to have the rejected milk of one day brought back to the creamery the next day. It is, of course, quite possible that milk rejected may be brought back in a clean can and unknowingly accepted, owing to the fact that the visible dirt had been removed from it. Such cases are bound to occur in the rush of business at a creamery, but they would be very exceptional.

I think it will be admitted that in the carrying out of this as well as all other sections of the Dairy Produce Act, the Department could not have made much progress were it not that they had the whole-hearted co-operation of the managers and their association. It should be obvious to the District Justice that it is "up to" the manager to turn out the very finest butter, obtain the best price for it, and thereby pay his suppliers the highest possible price for milk, and that he could have no personal interest in entering into a "conspiracy" with his suppliers to defeat the purpose of an Act for which the creamery managers had been agitating for many years. It is at least certain that the circumstances generally do not merit anything like the sweeping condemnation expressed by Mr. Johnson.—Yours, etc.,

D. HEGARTY, Secretary.

FAMOUS DUBLIN WAREHOUSE.

DIAMOND JUBILEE.

In the year 1867 there was established in Henry street, Dublin, a small firm of warehousemen under the title of Hazelton, Connor and Co., Ltd., the name being changed in 1881 to the Henry Street Warehouse Co., Ltd. —a name which has since become well-known, not only in Ireland, but among the sons and daughters of Ireland in the lands beyond the seas. The history of the Warehouse is the history of the development of the modern general stores. From a comparatively small shop, the Warehouse has extended to a huge stores of twenty different sections or departments, each a shop in itself. The latest addition is a luxuriously fitted ladies' hairdressing salon, while there has also been added recently a lending library, confectionery and sweets, and a complete pharmacy department. Every item of personal wear for men, women and children can now be purchased at the Warehouse, while every article required in the home, from a saucepan to a luxurious suite of furniture, can be had under the one roof. The success of the Warehouse within recent years is due in no small measure to the present managing director, Mr. T. J. Geary. No little part of this success is due to the policy of consistent newspaper advertising. The apathy of the retailer is often the greatest obstacle to the success of a well-produced Irish article. In many instances the fact of the Warehouse taking up the sale of an Irish article has been the means of getting that article adopted generally.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS STRONG.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Friday.

Stocks at the opening ruled irregular, but the steadiness of leaders like U.S. Steel Common, General Motors and General Electric, and a reduction in brokers' loans, instead of the predicted increase, caused an outburst of speculative enthusiasm. U.S. Steel Common crossed 141, General Motors 249 and General Electric 133, all peak prices; and Commercial Solvents "B" advanced 17. The continued selling of Oils, Radio Corporation, and U.S. Cast Iron Pipe, the latter falling 5 on the announcement that pipe prices are the lowest in ten years, and a decline of 4 points in Atchison on a denial by the president of the railroad that the consideration of a stock dividend is imminent, caused only momentary hesitation. The market closed strong. Government Bonds irregular. Railroad Bonds quiet. The day's sales totalled 2,197,000 shares. Money on call closed steady at 3¼ p.c. bid and 3½ p.c. asked. All business was transacted at 3½ p.c. Sterling exchange quiet. Silver ⅛c. higher at 54⅝.

THE ELECTION.

upon a policy of unconstitutional coercion of its political opponents under the extravagant and irresponsible process of the Public Safety Act, or whether a policy of conciliation and true constitutionalism should not be substituted in the interests of domestic peace and of economic revival. That was the issue in the recent no confidence motion, and it remains the real issue, which the electorate must decide.

"President Cosgrave said yesterday that 'the National League group were returned on the basis of complete acceptance of, and loyalty to, the Treaty and on a programme of reduction of expenditure.' That is so; but he should have added 'loyalty to the Constitution,' and we should still have accepted his statement. But it was also returned as a party of Opposition to President Cosgrave's Government. The National League group has been absolutely loyal to the Treaty and the Constitution; but it has been forced into acute opposition against the Government by the necessity for upholding the rights of constitutional agitation and for resisting the abrogation, by President Cosgrave and his colleagues, of all constitutional safeguards to personal liberty and impartial justice.

"It is, in our view, just as imperative to protect the Constitution against the encroachments of the Cumann na nGaedheal as against those of the Fianna Fail. The issue at the general election will thus be peace or war in the Irish Free State, and we very much doubt if much enthusiasm will be evoked for the proposal to give President Cosgrave full powers and a clear mandate to renew civil disturbances and destruction throughout the Irish Free State by waging a war of coercion upon his political opponents under the pretext of repressing crime."

RIGHTS OF VOTERS.

From inquiries sent to the Irish Times it seems that considerable doubt as to their position as electors exists in the minds of some people who are qualified to vote in more than one constituency. The simplest case is that of a man with a business premises in Dublin City and a residence in Dublin County. In which of those electoral areas can he record his vote, or can he vote in both?

The position is made quite clear in the Electoral Act, 1923, the Statute under which elections in the Irish Free State are carried out. The whole question is one of registration. In the first section it is laid down that every citizen "shall be entitled to be registered once as a Dail elector in one, but not more than one, constituency." Every such citizen may be registered as a Dail elector in any one of the following constituencies:—

(a) The constituency in which he or she is ordinarily resident on the qualifying date; or

(b) The constituency in which he or she occupies, on the qualifying date, business premises; or

(c) The University constituency in which he or she has received a degree other than an honorary degree, or, in the case of the University of Dublin, has received such degree or obtained a foundation scholarship or (if a woman) a non-foundation scholarship.

Sub-section 5 of Section 1 says:—"If a person would be registered under this section to be registered as a Dail elector in more than one constituency, he or she may choose which of these constituencies he or she shall be registered in." Section 3 says:—"Every person registered as a Dail elector for any constituency shall, while so registered, be entitled to vote at every Dail election for that constituency."

It is plain, then, that, no matter how many may be the qualifications of an elector, he has only one vote, and that is to be recorded in one constituency only. When he is being placed on the register he may select the constituency in which he wishes to exercise the franchise. If he does not so select, he will have to find out where he may vote. The main point is registration.

SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

BEST AGE AT WHICH TO ENTER PUPILS.

The Northern Ireland Ministry of Education, in a circular to teachers and managers of elementary schools, points out the importance of transferring pupils from the elementary to the secondary schools at the proper age.

It has been found, the Ministry state, that over 72 per cent., or almost three-fourths of all the pupils from public elementary schools who enter secondary schools do so after reaching the age of 13; over 38 per cent. after reaching 14; while over 16 per cent. actually delay their entry till after they reach 15 years of age. Many pupils, therefore, do not get the benefit of a full secondary course, while many do not even enjoy a properly completed intermediate course.

In the opinion of the teachers of secondary schools, with which the Ministry concurs, the late age of admission of pupils to these schools is a factor which militates strongly against that improvement in secondary education which is so essential in the general interests of the country.

It is generally recognised that a full secondary course should extend over not less than five years, of which three should be spent on the intermediate course alone, which closes at the stage represented by the Ministry's Junior Certificate examination.

Whether they intend to take the full secondary course or the intermediate course only, it is advisable, as a rule, that children should begin the post-preparatory course of study in a secondary school in that school year in which they reach the age of 12. The consequences cannot be other than serious if pupils begin such a course later than 13 years of age at least.

At Bray District Court yesterday, J. W. Moore, Dublin, who knocked down an electric lamp standard in Meath road, Bray, with his motor car, was fined £2 2s. for negligence when driving a motor car. Moore said that he had to swerve to the left in order to avoid an otherwise inevitable collision with a baker's motor van.

DISTRICT COURT CENSORS.

JUSTICE'S PROTEST AND WARNING.

At the sitting of the Boyle District Court, Mr. J. H. Rice, the District Justice, protested against an attempt which, he said, had been made by an assembly in the County Roscommon to influence his decisions.

Mr. Rice said that within the past few days it had come to his knowledge that at a recent assembly in the County Roscommon some personages of note arrogated to themselves the rights and duties of censorship over the proceedings, decisions and orders of the District Court. The obvious and logical suggestion laid down by the action of these self-appointed censors was that a litigant or criminal coming before him wearing a certain badge was to be treated in a manner diametrically opposed to the treatment to be meted out to a similar litigant or criminal who did not wear a similar badge. In other words, that the honour, moral and high principle which have found their way permanently into his Courts were to be subverted in the interests of a certain section of the community and that he as a judge was to abandon his independence and integrity.

He spoke with the utmost mildness in view of the gross insult offered to him and to the Court, and he trusted that he should not have to alter his tone in future.

Nevertheless, Mr. Rice continued, I think it my duty from this bench, here and now, to publicly declare that if there is a repetition of this grave scandal I shall at once take the necessary action, however painful it may be, to protect from further injury this last and greatest bulwark of the Constitution and the common weal.

BOMB EXPLOSION IN LIMERICK.

FOUR BOYS INJURED.

A startling explosion occurred in Limerick yesterday evening shortly before seven o'clock, and four boys, named O'Grady, Horrigan, O'Brien and McNamara were severely injured.

The boys dug up a bomb in a waste piece of ground off Edward street, and removed the cap. They then lighted a fire and threw the bomb into it.

The boys were removed to hospital. McNamara's condition is critical.

CRICKETERS IN MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT.

Some of the Sussex County cricketers, including Maurice Tate, were involved in a motor accident between Peacehaven and Rottingdean yesterday afternoon, when their car collided with a motor lorry, the radiator of the car being smashed. The cricketers were returning to Brighton after their victory over Lancashire at Eastbourne.

None of the cricketers was injured, but two friends who accompanied them, one a woman, received injuries, and after receiving medical attention at Peacehaven proceeded by taxicab to Brighton.

RENT ARREARS IN CLARE.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS THREATENED.

At a meeting of the Clare Board of Health last Thursday a letter was read from the Minister of Local Government bringing under the notice of the Board the indifferent manner in which the collection of cottage rents is being carried out in Clare. The amount of rent outstanding on 31st March—namely, £2,742, had been allowed to increase to £2,864, on the 30th June. "This state of affairs," stated the Minister, "is due to the fact that the majority of collectors have not alone made no effort to reduce the arrears of their areas, but have allowed the current rent to fall into arrear." Having regard to the expenditure of the Board on the upkeep of cottages, the Minister requested that effective measures be adopted at once for the collection of the outstanding rents at an early date.

The Board made an order directing that if arrears of rent be not paid within fourteen days legal proceedings for the recovery of the amounts due must be instituted by collectors.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES.

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN FLUCTUATING.

COURTAULDS BETTER.

The feeling that a general election would immediately follow the Dublin election results was quickly realised by the actual notification, on the principle, possibly, of striking the political iron while it is hot. Stock Exchange securities were comparatively little affected by the overnight election declarations, which were considered by careful thinkers almost inevitable. National and Compensation Stocks were unaltered, but some selling pressure developed in Land Bonds, and the price lost the recent gain. British Funds were harder on balance, with India Stock much firmer after the previous day's fall. Dublin Corporation 3½ per cent. Stock remains in request. The Bank market tended to ease, but dealings were mostly small and of little account. Guinness Ord. did not vary at the close, after being the turn lower for a broken lot. Marconi Shares remain idle and dull. Rails were rather the turn lower also, but business was poor throughout. Trams and Drapery Shares were firm. Manufacturing Shares were irregular. Courtaulds were in request all day, but other Textile things, especially Pref. Shares, tended to ease. Imperial Tobaccos also fell back a trifle, but British-Americans were bid up a little without business resulting. Burke issues were well held. Vague rumours regarding possibilities of some "deal" among the mineral water manufacturers in Dublin were mooted, but as only the Thwaites Company Shares are dealt in on the Stock Exchange, and no business was current, news could not be gleaned in this way as to the truth or otherwise of the report. Baldwin Shares rose rather sharply. Branston Artificial Silk Shares again improved, and bidding for British Celanese Ord., British Match and Vocalion Gramaphone Shares was continued more often than not at higher prices.

LONDON STEADY.

TEXTILES ACTIVE.

Although the volume of business passing in the majority of sections of the London Stock Markets yesterday continued on a small scale, a generally steady to firm tone prevailed, while here and there a few good features were noticeable. Among Industrials, Textiles continued the centre of interest, and another active business was transacted. Higher values were returned in several instances. Tea shares were also a strong market, while business was on a good scale. Little of interest transpired in Gilt-edged securities, but the tone was a shade firmer, and War Loan Fives and the 5½ p.c. Treasury Bonds both improved. Foreign Government stocks experienced another extremely quiet session, and final values were practically without exception the same as before. Home Rails also showed little alteration. Colonial and Foreign Rails were quiet, and "Can-Pacs," Grand Trunks and Buenos Ayres were all unchanged.

Among Industrials, Artsilks were again the centre of interest. Match issues continued firm. Iron and Steels, as a rule, were steady. Rubber made a heavy showing, and quotations again dropped back. Oils displayed a dull front, but Mines were better in certain instances. Tins, however, went off on a decline of £2 11s. 3d. per ton in the quotation for the metal to £287 11s. 3d.

BAGOTS, HUTTON AND CO., LTD.

Notice is given that an extraordinary general meeting of the company will be held on the 30th August, at 3 o'clock, when resolutions will be proposed to (1) appoint Mr. David Telford, of the firm of Craig, Gardner and Co., 40-41 Dame street, as liquidator; and (2) to authorise the said liquidator to transfer to Henry Pattison and Co., Ltd., of 38 Thomas street, Dublin, the business and property of the company in accordance with the terms of an agreement dated the 16th August, 1927. The terms of the agreement provide as follows:—The sale by Bagots, Hutton and Co., Ltd., of its entire property as from the 30th June, 1927, to Henry Pattison and Co., Ltd. The provision of a sum of £1,800 (less income tax) by Henry Pattison and Co., Ltd., towards payment of arrears of dividends due to Preference shareholders of Bagots, Hutton and Co., Ltd. The issue by Henry Pattison and Co., Ltd., of £24,000 6½ per Cent. Income Notes, 1947, for distribution amongst the Preference shareholders of Bagots, Hutton and Co., Ltd., in the proportion of £4 6½ per Cent. Income Notes for every £5 6 per Cent. Preference Shares held, and also the issue of £6,000 7 per Cent. Income Notes, 1947, for distribution amongst the Ordinary shareholders of Bagots, Hutton and Co., Ltd., in the proportion of one 7 per Cent. Income Note of £1 for every £5 Ordinary Shares held. Interest on these Income Notes to be payable half-yearly on 30th June and 31st December. Henry Pattison and Co., Ltd., are to be at liberty at any time on or after the 30th June, 1930, and before the 30th June, 1947, to redeem these Income Notes on giving six months' notice of such intention and on payment of a premium of £1 per cent. on the capital sum represented by the Notes. Should the abovementioned resolutions be passed by the requisite majority, they will be submitted for confirmation as special resolutions to a second extraordinary general meeting which will be subsequently convened.

MATCH COMPANY'S DISPUTE.

The Stockholm Town Court has decided against Messrs. Kreugers, Ltd., of London, in their old-standing claim against the Scandinavia Match Company for 900,000 kroner compensation for alleged breach of a contract under which Kreugers claimed that the Scandinavia Company had given them sole selling rights for the Scandinavia's matches in England and certain British colonies for a period of ten years.

OIL PRODUCTION.

In their monthly circular the National City Bank of New York states that the production of crude oil continues to reach new high levels, despite efforts to limit drillings of new wells in the Seminole field, where the over-production is most acute. For the country as a whole output reached a new peak of 2,573,850 barrels daily average during the week of July 23, while latest figures from the Seminole indicate a new record output of 514,723 barrels on July 26. Renewed efforts are being made by operators in that field to come to some agreement regarding control of production, and a new plan is under consideration, the decision on which is being anxiously awaited by all concerned.

CANADIAN CROPS.

The crop outlook in Canada has improved, and any further frost damage is likely to affect the quality rather than the quantity.

ARTIFICIAL SILK DEVELOPMENTS.

It is understood that the final option of the Lilienfeld patents for the manufacture of new artificial silks has been exercised by Messrs. Courtaulds, Ltd., and the Vereinigte Glanzstoff Fabriken A.G. The Nuera Company, therefore, now enters upon its rights to manufacture the new silks, and every effort will be made in order to get to production on a commercial scale at the earliest possible moment. Sir James Paton, Chairman of the Nuera Art Silk Company, interviewed at Southport yesterday, said that Courtaulds had definitely decided to exercise an option on a patent for the manufacture of a new artificial silk. The documents, signed and sealed, had been delivered by himself.

LONDON CHANGES.

There was not a great deal of business passing in the Gilt-edged section. Consols were repeated at 54⅛, while Funding Loan and Victory Bonds also showed no alteration. Among War Loans the Fives went ¼ better to 101⅛, and 5½ Treasury Bonds at 101¼ were ¼ to the good. Conversion Loans 3½ p.c. were quoted ex div. at 75¼.

An extremely quiet market ruled in Foreign Government Stocks. Brazilians were quietly steady, and Chinese and Japanese were also unchanged.

RAILS QUIET.

Home Rails also experienced a quiet session, and little change was shown at the close. Midland stiffened the turn to 69½, or ½ better, but Metropolitan Districts lost the same amount to 62½.

There was very little going on in Colonial and Foreign Rails. Cordoba Central 1st and 2nd Prefs. both improved ½ on the day to 91 and 58½ respectively, while United Havana at 74 recorded a similar advance.

RUBBER SHARES IDLE.

There was again very little business passing in the Rubber Share market, while a dull tone still prevailed. Actual price movements were not numerous, but they were generally in the downward direction. A distinctly easier tone ruled in the commodity market at the commencement of business, and, although quotations for the raw material rallied slightly later on, the final values were still appreciably below those ruling at the close on the previous day. Spot and September opened at 1s. 4⅞d., and then stiffened to 1s. 5d. per pound; October to December hardened from 1s. 5¼d. to 1s. 5⅜d. per pound, while January to March was quoted at 1s. 5⅝d. per pound. In the share market Damansara lost 1s. 3d. to 25s., while Highlands and Java Para at 56s. 3d. and 47s. 6d., respectively, were also both 1s. 3d. easier. Kapar Para and Kuala Lumpur were also dull spots, and here also a loss of 1s. 3d. was returned. Malacca slipped back to 62s. 6d., or 1s. 10½d. easier, while Linggi shed 7½d. to 51s. 3d. Telogoredjo and Toerangie both dropped 1s. 3d. to 60s. and 53s. 1½d., respectively. United Sua Betong provided the only exception, and here a small advance was registered at 100s.

TEA SHARES RISING.

Another fairly active business was transacted in the Tea share market, while a strong tone continued evident. At the close a further long list of improvements was marked, many of the advances being of a substantial character. There was an exceptionally active market for the commodity, buyers appearing to be concerned only about securing tea, and, as a consequence, higher prices again ruled. In the share market Brahmapootra were an exceptionally firm spot, and here an improvement of 1½ points was scored to 40, while Amalgamated Estates at 49⅛ were a further ⅛ to the good. Budla Beta put on 7/32, and Ceylon Plant finished 1/16 higher, while Cons. Tea and Lands at 38¼ were 5/16 above their overnight level. Assam Co. spurted to 47s. 3d., or 2s. better, and Bogawantalawa at 78s. 9d. were 2s. 3d. up. Ceylon Props spurted to 71s. 3d., or 4s. 9d. higher, and Chargola at 28s. 3d. showed an advance of 1s. 6d. Chubwa jumped forward to 97s. 6d., or 3s. 3d. to the good, and Dimbula Valley and Empire were 2s. 3s. and 1s. 4½d. harder, respectively. Dooars and Eastern Assam each finished 1s. 3d. better, while Moabund at 62s. 10½d. were 2s. 3d. firmer. Jorehaut were finally quoted at 95s. 7½d., at which an advance of 3s. 4½d. was scored. Kanan Devan lifted to 49¼, or ⅝ better, and Nuwara Eliya at 6¼ were ⅛ up. Travancore spurted to 5 3/16, or 3/16 better, while Ouvah and Pundaloya were 2s. 1½d. and 2s. harder. Singlo put on 1s. 10½d. to 66s. 10½d., and Upper Assam at 66s. 6d were 1s. 3d to the good.

OIL SHARES FINISH HEAVY.

As was the case on the earlier days of the week, the volume of transactions in Oil shares yesterday was small, and, although a steady start was made by the leaders and most of the more speculative favourites, the tendency became heavy later in the day, and price movements finally recorded were generally adverse. Following narrow fluctuations and a small business, Shells closed with a loss of 1/32 at 4 15/32, while the 7 per cent. Prefs. weakened to 24s. 7½d. Royal Dutch maintained a steady tone, finishing without alteration at 28⅝. After having been bid for at the price, Anglo-Americans left off steady at 3⅞. Anglo-Persians were offered to a moderate extent, and declined 1/16 to 4, while Burmahs were down to a like extent at 5 5/16. Business in Mexican Eagles was small, and the Ord. and 8 per cent. Part. Prefs. declined 3d. to 17s. 7½d. and 17s. 9d. respectively; the 7 per cent. 1st Prefs. remained steady at 18s. 3d. Pan American B declined ¼ dollar to 51¾ dollars. Although steady at the start, Trinidad issues became easier as the day progressed, in sympathy with the rest of the market, the improvement which occurred earlier in the week leading to a moderate amount of profit-taking. Trinidad Leaseholds were finally 1/32 down at 4 1/32. Apex Trinidad lost 1/32 at 2 7/32, and United British receded 3d. to 10s. 9d. Lobitos were freely offered in the afternoon, falling at one time to 3 31/32 sellers, while the final price of 4 left them ⅛ down on the day. Anglo-Ecuadorians were also a dull spot, losing 1/16 at 1 19/32. Among Venezuelans, V.O.C. Holdings further declined 1/16, the Ord. to 3 and the Prefs. to 2 15/16. The British Controlled issues left off without alteration. Creole Syndicates receded 1/32 to 2½, and Omniums weakened 3d. to 6s. 10½d.

INDUSTRIALS REMAIN SATISFACTORY.

Though a little week-end profit-taking was noticeable in the Industrial market yesterday the general tone remained firm. The Electrical Equipment section attracted most attention under the lead of Henleys, which finished 3s. to the good at 100s. Metro-Vickers rose 1s. 9d. to 29s. 3d., with Johnson and Phillips marked 1s. 6d. higher at 49s. 6d. Brush further improved to 29s., Callenders to 75s. 6d., and General Electrics to 32s. English Electrics were subjected to profit-taking, and closed slightly easier at 13s. 6d., after being 14s. Artsilks also continued active, the favourites being British Celanese, American Celanese and Nueras, the last-named rising on the directors' circular, stating that Courtaulds had exercised their option concerning the Lilienfeld process. British Celanese Ord. closed 2s. up at 55s. 6d., with the Pref. at 29s., after 29s. 3d. For reasons stated, Nueras were bid for, the Ord. closing 1s. 6d. to the good at 33s. 6d., after changing hands at 35s., and the Defd. 6d. higher at 23s. 6d., after being 25s. American Celanese Common were dealt in up to 16 7/16 at one time, closing 16⅛. Branstons met with further inquiry, the Ord. improving to 14s. 3d. and the Defd. to 4s. 3d. Courtaulds were active but unchanged at 6 13/16. Of the leading Textiles, Bleachers hardened to 41s., Bradford Dyers to 46s. 9d., and Calico Printers to 28s.

Coal, Steel and Engineering descriptions generally maintained a firm front. Hadfields were lifted 9d. to 16s. 9d., with B.S.A. Ord. at 14s. 9d., Baldwins at 6s. 9d., Beardmore Pref. at 4s. 9d., Lamberts at 51s., and Pease and Partners at 9s. 3d., all a few pence harder. Shipping issues found further supporters. P. and O. Defd. rose 5 to 290, with Furness Withy changing hands up to 37s. 3d., and closing 1s. higher on balance at 37s. Cairn Lines stiffened to 23s. 6d., and Cunard Ord. to 26s. Insurance shares again met with good inquiry. Alliance New advancing to 18⅝, Commercial Union 24⅝, General Accident to 8, and North British and Mercantile to 28¼. Banks were slightly harder where changed, Chartered of India at 20¼, and Union of Australia at 15¼. The Traction group had a firmer appearance. Brazilian Common rallied smartly to 183, and the Pref. to 152. Allsopps continued active in the Brewery section, the Ordinary changing hands up to 25s. 4½d., with the Preference dealt in at 112. Guinness improved 10 to 500. Tobaccos showed little variation. "Imps" eased slightly to 101s. 6d., and Godfrey Phillips sagged to 3¼, with the rest of the list steady. Motor shares moved irregularly. Singers improved at first to 2 9/16 on the directors' statement, but eased later to 3¼. Dennis reacted to 7¼, and Rolls-Royce lost 3d. at 37s. 6d. On the other hand, Napiers were firm at 59s. 6d., and National Omnibus at 28s. 3d. A fair amount of trading was reported in Stores, Catering and Foodstuffs. D. H. Evans stiffened to 3⅛, and Harrods B.A. hardened further to 15s. 3d. Crosse and Blackwell's 1st Pref. were in demand, rising 1s. 3d. to 15s., with Lipton 5 per cent. Pref. marked up to 13s. Va. Den Berghs Ord. came on offer, and receded ⅛ to 2. Land shares had a steady appearance. Cements proved undecided. Nitrates were again favoured.

In the Miscellaneous department, Match issues attracted further attention, though prices on balance showed little variation. Swedish Match "B" stiffened to 17⅞ and British Match Corporation Ord. to 30s. 3d. Crittalls rose 1s. to 56s., and Eastwoods were marked up to 48s. 6d. on the dividend. Pinchin Johnson had buyers around 5⅜. Graphophones eased to 112s., with Gramophones steady around 118s. Edison Bell Ord. were in demand for reasons stated, and rose to 29s. Vocalions further improved to 14s.

Credit remained in plentiful supply, and borrowers were offered accommodation over the night at 3 down to 2½ p.c. Most of the old day-to-day money was renewed at 3½ p.c., while fixtures for a day or a week were continued at 3½ p.c. Loans to September 1, after being 3¾ p.c. in the morning, were offered at 3½ p.c. in the afternoon.

The discount market was steady, with 4 5/16 p.c. the general rate for fine commercial three months' bills. The hot Treasuries were offered at 4¼ p.c., while the banks were buyers of October at that figure.

The Bank of England announced the sale of £16,000 in bar gold. Next week Cape gold to the value of £360,000 is expected to arrive in this market. Gold remained at 84s. 11½d. per fine oz. On China buying spot silver rose ⅛d. and forward delivery 1/16d. to the level of 25⅛d. per oz.

The sterling dollar rate improved to a little over 4.86 1/16, but the Montreal quotation was lower again at 4.85⅞. In the South American group, Uruguayan dollars were easier again. The Mexican rate was quoted lower at 23.48d. per dollar. Swiss francs were a little better, and Austrian schillings and Spanish pesetas improved; but Italian lire, German marks, Dutch florins, Danish kroner, and Rumanian lei all depreciated.

BELFAST.

Belfast Exchange closed the week with moderate activity and a steady tone. War Loan changed hands at Thursday's prices, 101 11/16 and 101 13/16; 2½ per cent. Consols at 54⅝. In Bank shares, Westminster (partly paid) were dealt in at 18¼. Railway stocks were idle and unaltered. In miscellaneous Industrials, a small odd lot of Dunvilles were done at 8. Lever Bros. 8 per cent. Preference brought 19s. 3d. and M'Caw Debenture 62½. TEA MARKET STILL EXCITED.

PRICES RISING.

An unusually active market by private treaty, and requirements are universal. Irrespective of quality, buyers appear only concerned about securing tea, so that higher prices were again quoted yesterday. It is difficult to find any Indian broken under 1s. 6d. per pound, in bond, while any Ceylon on offer soon cleared at higher figures. Java Broken Orange Pekoe at 1s. 4d. to 1s. 5d. was eagerly snapped up. An enormous business has been effected in China teas of low type at 6½d., and now nothing is to be had under 7d. per pound. Finer Keemuns are very difficult to find.

LONDON MINING MARKET SATISFACTORY.

KAFFIRS REMAIN FIRM.

At the close of the week the tone of the House continued very good, but the amount of business available left much to be desired. Kaffirs were firm in the Mining market, and Cape specialities were particularly strong. Modder "B" were in very good demand and advanced sharply, while Modder East and Consolidated Main Reefs were also higher. Sub-Nigels turned small sellers and eased a little, but Van Ryn Deeps were a harder market than of late and improved. Buyers came in for West Springs, and, as the floating supply of shares was very small, the price quickly went ahead. Nourse Mines were firmer, and West Rand Consolidateds hardened on a little bear closing before the week-end. Gedulds and Union Corporations were a small fraction lower, but Rand Mines gained a trifle, and Finance shares generally were steady; "Generals" were quoted ex rights. The new shares were mentioned as ⅜ prem. The Rhodesian department was very quiet and trading was very small. Rezende came in buyers now that the shares are quoted ex dividend, and went ahead sharply. There was a small Continental demand for Tanks, and, while these particular numbers were better, the inquiry was not sufficient to influence London shares. The Northern group was quietly steady. General Asbestos, Bwana Mkubwas, and Rhodesia Chartered and Cams were steady. In Diamonds, De Beers Defd. opened quiet, buyers at the overnight level, and during the day steadily advanced. The recent burst of selling for the present appears to have ceased, while a fair amount of unobtrusive buying was in progress. The Pref. were also a harder market, while Jagersfontein improved in sympathy. Consolidated Diamonds were in demand and higher. The price of tin declined £2 11s. 3d. to £287 11s. 3d. per ton, and changes in the Share market were mainly small declines. London Tins reacted sharply, while Tin Selections turned sellers where previously they had been buyers. Kamunting weakened a few pence, and Northern Tavoys, Siamese and Tronoh were easier. Tavoys, Malayans and Sungei Besi, however, were well maintained. In Nigerians profit-taking before the week-end was noticeable in Bauchi Ord., which reacted. The announcement by the Broken Hill Block 14 that unless a decided rally took place in metal prices the company would be compelled to close down had a depressing influence on Barriers. The company is one of the smallest producers on the field, and the life of the property was known to be short, in any case. Nevertheless, Norths fell sharply, followed by Souths, Broken Hill Proprietaries, Sulphides and Zinc Pref. A recovery took place in Rio Tintos, but other Coppers were unaltered. Mining Corporations continued to improve on advices from Canada, but Keeley Silver were small sellers and weakened. Burma Corporations were unaltered, but Chemicals reacted, and San Francisco Mines were easier. Closing prices:—

SHROPSHIRE SHEEP.

THE BEAU PARC SALE.

The annual sale of pure-bred Shropshire rams and ewes took place yesterday afternoon at Beau Parc, County Meath, the residence of Lady Lambart. Established seventy-seven years ago by the Lambart family, this, the oldest sale of the kind in Ireland, has always attracted the principal breeders of Shropshires from the Midlands, and enabled them to secure from amongst the Beau Parc flock the particular types of rams and ewes which they require. As in past years, buyers were numerous; all the lots were sold, and the prices were considered satisfactory. The average price for rams showed a slight increase when compared with last year's average, as also did the prices for yearling bullocks; but the price obtained for stock ewes, hoggets, and black-faced sheep was slightly lower than the figures of a year ago.

The Shropshire rams, twenty-five of which were offered for sale, were a fine lot. They were healthy and full of quality and substance. Keen competition prevailed. The dozen ewes and hoggets sold were a superior lot, while the black-faced sheep, renowned for producing early market lambs, were in excellent condition, as also were the nine yearling bullocks.

The prices for pure-bred yearling rams ranged from 6½ to 11½ gns., and the buyers were: Mr. Coldrick (four at 9, 10, 10½, and 9½ gns.), Mrs. Smith (two at 8¼ and 7 gns.), Mr. L. Donegan (9 gns.), Mr. J. Creaser (8 gns.), Mr. J. Bellew (8 gns.), Mr. M. Brady (two at 8½ and 11½ gns.), Mr. P. Farrell (three at 9½, 10, and 8½ gns.), Mr. T. Meade (9 gns.), Captain Dean (two at 8½ and 7 gns.), Mr. O'Brien (two at 8½ and 6 gns.), Mr. Lentaigne (two at 9 gns. each), Mr. O'Callaghan (9 gns.), Mr. Boylan (8½ gns.), and Mr. Caffery (6½ gns.).

The twelve pure-bred Shrop stock ewes and black-faced stock obtained prices ranging from 34/- to 62/-, the buyers being Messrs. Meade, Geraghty, Hilman, Farrell, Sheehan, P. Austin, W. J. Fullen, and W. McDonnell.

Yearlings bullocks made from £12 to £16 5/-.

Messrs. Robert B. Daly and Son, Ltd., auctioneers, Drogheda, conducted the sale.

According to a report presented by Dr. Norah O'Dwyer, tuberculosis medical officer to the County Clare Sanatorium Committee, there are at present 23 patients in the Sanatorium, 19 in the County Home, 3 in the County Hospital, while 29 are being attended at the nine branch dispensaries. When compared with previous reports these figures would indicate that the disease is on the decline in Clare.

OPINION IN THE NORTH.

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE'S WISE ACTION.

FROM OUR BELFAST CORRESPONDENT.

The decision of Mr. Cosgrave to hold an immediate general election has occasioned no surprise in Belfast, in view of the sweeping victories which the Government party obtained in the two by-elections. In putting the issue fairly before the country and asking for a substantial working majority to carry on the work of the State, Mr. Cosgrave has acted, in the opinion of all sections in Belfast, upon true democratic principles.

Northern Ireland is anxious to see settled conditions prevailing in the South, and to see the two Irish Governments working in harmony for the development of the country's resources. It is the general feeling in the North that a Government under the guidance of Mr. Cosgrave is the best fitted to create settled conditions. While there is no disposition in the North to enter into the political discussions in the Free State, it is the general hope that Mr. Cosgrave will receive such a substantial majority that the country can, for the next three or four years, give itself up to developing its resources, free from all political distractions.

So long as there is a possibility of the Treaty position being upset by a Republican Government coming into power the North is not likely to look with favour upon closer relations with the South.

THE ELECTORS' CHANCE.

The Belfast News-Letter says:—"In dissolving Parliament immediately, Mr. Cosgrave and his colleagues have acted wisely. Many people think that they should have dissolved Parliament when the vote of censure was defeated; but the delay has enabled them to expose the dishonourable and unpatriotic policy of their chief opponents, and also to let the electors see that the Labour Party is practically indistinguishable from that of Mr. de Valera.

"Its leader, Mr. Thomas Johnson, has asserted the right of the electors, if they wish, to abolish the oath and repudiate the Treaty, thus reducing the country to a state of anarchy; and that is what Mr. de Valera intends to do if he gets the chance. The National League has been badly led by Captain Redmond, and it is discredited. The electors have now the opportunity of putting an end to Mr. de Valera's claim to represent any considerable section of them, and of confirming in an unequivocal way their acceptance of the Constitution of the Free State and of its position as one of the Dominions of the British Empire."

THE MAIN ISSUE.

The Northern Whig states:—"If the majority of the Free State electors are not entirely destitute of the capacity to distinguish between what is genuine and serviceable in politics and what is shoddy and spurious, the Government should come back from the country appreciably stronger than it was after the recent election. The main issue is practically the same, but the conditions under which the popular judgment will be given have altered very considerably, and the alteration ought to be decidedly advantageous to the Government.

"Since the last appeal to the electors all the anti-Ministerial factions have behaved in a fashion calculated to disgust sensible, plain dealing people. The professions of abiding devotion to lofty ideals, of disinterested zeal for the wellbeing of the nation, have been shown up for what they are—the hollow blarney of political gamesters, by whom principles are regarded as balloonists regard ballast—something than can always be thrown away when they wish to rise in the world. The Republicans, the Socialists, and the Redmondites have all tarred themselves with the same brush."

A CHANGE WANTED.

The Belfast Telegraph says:—"The Free State has had a sufficiency of political excitement of late, and those people who take the trouble to think must surely realise the need for stability. We do not, however, believe that Mr. Cosgrave will obtain real stability until he abolishes Proportional Representation. In a straight fight in single-member constituencies he would win three times out of four."

THE LESSON.

The Irish News says:—"President Cosgrave believes in striking the iron while it is hot. The people acted with their eyes open—but without taking the results of their action into serious consideration—when they returned 44 Fianna Fail and 6 Republican candidates last June. They have since realised the results of that vote; they have learned more about Mr. de Valera than they knew before; they have seen the State endangered, the Government made powerless, the prospects of a National Loan vanished, great undertakings such as the Shannon Scheme and the building plans in peril of collapse: and it is hoped by the Government that they will be wiser when next they get an opportunity of marking ballot papers.

ENGLISH PRESS VIEWS.

MR. DE VALERA'S LOST ASSET

The Birmingham Post says:—It will be found, we dare say, that when Mr. de Valera took the oath, explaining that it meant nothing and bound him to nothing, he lost his greatest asset—the reputation of an idealist and a man of principle. And it may also be found that the voters will be somewhat more exacting this time in scrutinising the credentials of politicians associated with groups which lie under suspicion of willingness to join in playing the de Valeraist game. The Government evidently take that view. The dissolution is no act of despair; it is an act of defiance. It is inspired by a conviction that the country as a whole will follow Dublin's lead.

THE OATH BLUNDER.

The Liverpool Post says:—The backing given to the Government, not only in County Dublin, which was regarded as a safe seat, but also in Dublin City South, where conditions were more fluid, suggests that the electors have been profoundly stirred by the cynical tactics of Mr. de Valera and his followers, and are prepared to support Mr. Cosgrave, as the upholder of the Constitution, with all that means for the peace and prosperity of the State.

The electors as a whole, we imagine, distrust Mr. de Valera's political guidance. In his attempted palliation of his conduct concerning the oath they perceive a sophistical jugglery with words over a subject which affects their religious sentiments. No Irish political leader ever committed so gratuitous a blunder as Mr. de Valera in his treatment of the oath as such. It was treatment which displayed an amazing absence of understanding of the Irish character as well as a singular lack of political self-respect. Long indulgence in an extremist temper probably tends to blunt moral discernment in those who yield to it.

MEANING OF THE OATH.

The Yorkshire Post says:—If the Dublin by-elections are a test, with their emphatic Government majorities over the combined Republican vote, especially in Dublin County, the present Government should be returned to office with a large working majority. If these elections mean anything, they mean that Irishmen are tired of the disruptive tactics of Fianna Fail, and that the National League misinterpreted the sentiment of the county when it proposed a deal with Labour and with the men who have taken the oath as a means of abolishing it.

The oath is one of allegiance, not to England, but to the Crown and to His Majesty as King in each several part of his Empire. The opposition politicians appear too hastily to have jumped to the conclusion that the Irish electorate attached no importance to what membership of the Empire implied for the benefit of Ireland, and that it was prepared to treat the question of the oath as a matter to be tampered with by party bargaining.

OUT OF THE FRYING-PAN.

The Star remarks:—Mr. Cosgrave has taken "the tide in the affairs of men" at the flood, and we imagine—though we cannot feel sure of anything in Ireland—that it will carry him to power with a good working majority. It is clear that the financial condition of the Government needs early support, and that can only be obtained if confidence is established. That confidence can only be established if there is a Government with a majority of its own, able to carry out its own measures. The Labour Party's vote will probably not decrease, but it will probably not increase much, for Ireland is the land of the petit bourgeois par excellence. The recent indecisive general election was due to sectional disputes with Mr. Cosgrave's Government, but those who gratified their resentment in this way now find that they are "out of the frying-pan and into the fire."

ELECTION PROSPECTS IN THE COUNTRY.

PARTIES' PREPARATIONS IN THE CONSTITUENCIES.

SOME STARTLING SURPRISES FORESHADOWED.

our correspondents in the different constituencies indicate that the unexpected general election has found all the parties financially unprepared.

The National League appears to be moribund in most places, and probably will not put up more than half-a-dozen candidates altogether.

Sinn Fein, too, is expected to contest very few seats, though Miss MacSwiney will be nominated for Cork.

In many of the constituencies there is a suggestion that the Farmers' Party will effect a fusion with the Government Party, either locally or as a whole. In some cases the Farmers cannot put up a candidate unless they come to some such agreement with the Government Party.

The Government Party are very confident in every constituency, and in several cases expect to increase their representation.

Fianna Fail does not display any great optimism, but some of its spokesmen maintain that in certain constituencies they will gain seats.

DUBLIN.

MANY PARTY MEETINGS.

SOME PROBABLE CANDIDATES.

The Dublin headquarters of the political parties were in a state of excitement and activity yesterday.

The Cumann na nGaedheal Party held a lengthy meeting in the Shelbourne Hotel during the day.

LABOUR.

The Labour Party also showed activity, and during the afternoon the Executive Committee were in session considering ways and means. A number of the retiring deputies were in attendance at the head offices during the day.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

One learned that the election bombshell had caught the National League Party by surprise, and consequently there had been no chance of calling the principal members together. While nothing had yet been done, a hope was expressed that the party would put into the field at least as many candidates as stood at the General Election.

INDEPENDENTS.

Of the Independent deputies in the city and county, it may be assumed that Major Bryan Cooper and Mr. John Good will again stand, and be returned. In North Dublin City, Mr. Alfred Byrne, who scored such a great vote at the head of the poll at the General Election, has already taken the field.

Dr. Myles Keogh, who has been returned at the three elections for the South City as an Independent, will again go forward. It is rumoured that one of the Independents will stand this time as a Government candidate.

FIANNA FAIL.

The Executive Committee of Mr. de Valera's organisation was early in session at Lower Abbey street, Dublin. There the opinion was expressed that the Government had misjudged feeling in the country, and that Fianna Fail would come back with added strength. It was stated that the Fianna Fail Party will put up from 85 to 90 candidates. In Dublin County they will nominate three candidates—viz., Mr. Sean McEntee (returned at the recent General Election), Mr. Robert Brennan (beaten at the General Election, and again defeated in Wednesday's by-election), and Mr. Sean Brady (who stood unsuccessfully at the General Election).

In the South City, Fianna Fail will put up three candidates—Mr. Sean Lemass, Mr. Robert Briscoe and another. In the North City there will probably be four Fianna Fail candidates—Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly and Mrs. Tom Clarke (both successful at the General Election), and Mr. E. Cooney (defeated at the General Election) and another.

It is believed that the Sinn Fein deputy, Mr. Oscar Traynor will not take part in the election.

CARLOW-KILKENNY.

GOOD OUTLOOK FOR GOVERNMENT.

FARMERS FAVOURING FUSION.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
KILKENNY, Friday.

The people were quite unprepared for the announcement that three weeks hence they would again be called upon to pronounce their verdict at the polls. So far as President Cosgrave's constituents are concerned, there is not the slightest doubt that they will rally to his support.

Since the general election the murder of Mr. Kevin O'Higgins and the attempt to overthrow the Government have only tended to strengthen the Government support here, while, on the other hand, the new tactics of Fianna Fail have not secured for that party any new adherents, nor have they made any special appeal to many of Mr. de Valera's most ardent followers.

There are rumblings in the Labour ranks, and it is doubtful if Labour will enter the contest with the same zest as in June last.

The financial aspect, apart from other considerations, will have a great bearing on the contest, as far as the number of candidates is concerned.

It is pretty certain that three Government candidates will be put into the field, but it is doubtful if the Farmers' Union will nominate more than one—in fact, many farmers, in view of recent happenings, are more favourably disposed towards fusion with the Government Party than they were after the June election.

As regards the Labour Party, it is regarded as doubtful if they will put more than one candidate forward.

It may be taken for granted that Mr. Michael Shelly, the Fianna Fail candidate who was nominated in June, but took no active part to secure his return, will not allow his name to go forward.

It is unlikely that the National League will take any part in the contest.

In any event, it is certain that the Government Party will retain their two seats in the joint constituency of Carlow and Kilkenny.

CAVAN.

ELECTION NOT WANTED.

LESS THAN 50 PER CENT. POLL PROBABLE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT
CAVAN, Friday.

With bad weather threatening to destroy crops of all kinds neither the farming community nor the townspeople want an election just now, and it can be safely assumed that one-half of the electorate will not record their votes.

Financially none of the political parties are ready for the fray, as the campaign a few months back completely depleted their exchequers.

As to candidates, there is nothing definite, but it is expected that those who fought the constituency on the last occasion will again face the music.

A Cumann na nGaedheal convention is announced to be held in Cavan Hall on Sunday next, and official candidates will likely be chosen thereat.

CORK CITY.

FARMERS CONSIDER FUSION.

FOUR GOVERNMENT CANDIDATES.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Friday.

Four candidates will again be nominated by the Government Party. In addition to the present members—J. J. Walsh, Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, and Barry M. Egan—it is stated that the nominees probably will be Mr. M. J. Nagle, a large cattle dealer and a former Chairman of Cork Harbour Commissioners, and Mr. E. Mahoney, of Blarney Woollen Mills.

Fianna Fail, I am informed, are reducing their nominations to two—Mr. Sean French, the successful candidate at last election, and either Dr. Con. Lucey or Mr. C. O'Leary, both of whom were unsuccessful.

Mr. John Horgan will again stand in the interests of the National League.

Miss Mary MacSwiney, it is expected, will be put forward again as Sinn Fein candidate.

The Labour Party's nomination will probably be Mr. R. S. Anthony, the outgoing member, and Mr. E. Fitzgerald.

CUMANN NA nGAEDHEAL MEETING.

Mr. Barry M. Egan, ex-T.D., Chairman, presided at a special meeting of Cork City Executive of Cumann na nGaedheal to-night, when it was arranged to hold a special meeting on Monday next to discuss the names of candidates to be submitted to a Convention. It is expected that the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs will attend this meeting. Details of the election campaign were discussed and preparations for it outlined.

A committee was appointed to launch an appeal for financial aid.

THE FARMERS' PARTY.

It was learned here this evening that a suggestion has been made to effect a fusion of Cumann na nGaedheal and the Farmers' Party. The matter probably will be discussed at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the County Cork Farmers' Union, which will be held to-morrow, but, of course, any decision arrived at will have no effect outside the constituency.

EAST DONEGAL.

NATIONAL LEAGUE OPTIMIST.

LABOUR EXPECTS TO GAIN A SEAT.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
STRABANE, Friday.

Government supporters in the main praise the tactics of Mr. Cosgrave, and are confident that in Donegal the Government candidates will reverse their bad luck of June, and that they will poll very heavily.

Fianna Fail supporters express resentment at the "snap" election, but state that their candidates' chances have gone up a hundredfold. They are confident of three seats at least.

A prominent supporter of Mr. Daniel McMenamin (National League) stated that on this occasion he would increase his poll by some three thousand votes and would head the poll for the county. Labour expects to win a seat.

The same candidates are likely to go forward on this occasion as in June.

EFFECT OF NATIONAL LEAGUE'S POLICY.

LONDONDERRY, Friday.

There is a fairly confident belief that County Donegal will return four Government supporters, at least, instead of the three returned at the last election. The expectation is that the additional seat will be won at the expense of the National League representative (Mr. Dan McMenamin, B.L.), who is known to have received large numbers of votes which would not have been given had Captain Redmond's policy been revealed during the contest.

Interviewed yesterday by an Irish Times representative, Senator McLoughlin said:—"I think the people will now realise the mistake they made at the last general election in voting for men who proclaimed themselves as supporters of law and order, but took the first opportunity to range themselves with the people who were responsible for all the disorder for which the Donegal ratepayers were so heavily mulcted. I believe the events of the last couple of months will make those who were formerly apathetic now realise their responsibility. It is, perhaps, too much to hope that those who supported Mr. de Valera's candidates will be shocked at the performance of gentlemen who took five years to decide to take an oath which they declared they would never take."

GALWAY.

NEW CANDIDATES EXPECTED.

TWO NATIONAL LEAGUE NOMINEES.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
GALWAY, Friday.

No move was made to-day towards the selection of candidates, but it is believed that several meetings will be arranged for Sunday.

Some new Cumann na nGaedheal candidates are likely to stand on this occasion along with the outgoing T.D.'s.

Labour will again put forward Mr. Gilbert Lynch, the outgoing T.D., but the National League and Farmers' Party prospects are difficult to determine. Mr. W. Duffy (N.L.) and Mr. James Cosgrave, ex-T.D. (N.L.), are likely to stand again, and there may be one or two Independents on this occasion.

The Sheriff has fixed Saturday week, September 3, from 10 a.m. to 12, for receiving nominations.

KERRY.

FIANNA FAIL LOSES GROUND.

GOVERNMENT PARTY CONFIDENT.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
TRALEE, Friday

Many Fianna Fail supporters are confident of doing better this time, owing to Mr. de Valera and his party having entered the Dail, but the extreme section of his followers, confined mainly to the younger idealists, are disgusted with the taking of the oath, and a big number of these young voters who worked hard for the party last June will take no part whatever in the coming election.

The supporters of the Government are confident of a sweeping victory.

An influential member of the Farmers' Union heartily welcomed the early general election. His only regret is that it would not give sufficient time to the farmers to meet and throw in their lot with the Government Party. Their duty, however, he said, was to stand by the Government candidates.

LEITRIM-SLIGO.

ALDERMAN JINKS'S INTENTIONS.

PARTIES SAID TO BE SHORT OF FUNDS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
SLIGO, Friday.

The announcement of a general election came as a surprise to-day, and there is much speculation as to how many parties outside the Government Party itself will be in a position to put forward candidates. It is generally believed that most, if not all, their finances were exhausted in the last election.

Interviewed this afternoon Alderman Jinks said: "I was not one bit surprised when I read to-day's paper, because I held that from the result of the 'no confidence' vote the Government would have no alternative but to face the situation openly by going to the country, and my opinion is that they could not have done so at a more opportune moment. The very extraordinary victory which the Government achieved in the by-elections in Dublin was, I believe, an impetus to them to test the country, and my belief is that what occurred in Dublin yesterday will be repeated all over the country on the 15th September."

Questioned as to whether he intended to go forward in the coming election, Alderman Jinks said: "Certainly, I will; I see no reason why I should not."

"Do you propose to go forward as an Independent candidate, or as the representative of any party?"

"At the moment I have not decided, though, of course, anything may happen between now and the day of nomination."

"Would you be prepared to go forward as a Government candidate?"

"My answer to that is that I have always been a conscientious Government supporter, and whether they are pleased to select me or not is a matter for themselves. I will still remain the same in my support of the Constitution."

"Have you any idea as to the views of the Executive on your action in the case of the 'no confidence' vote?"

"No; I have consulted no member of the Executive, or the Government Party, as to my action on that occasion. I acted entirely on my own initiative and conscientiously. I believe I did the proper thing in justice to those who elected me."

"But, do you not think you would have done better to have voted Government?"

"Probably I would, but it would have meant the same thing anyhow. I was pledged to a party that, I was given to understand, would not, while reserving their right to criticise, oppose the Government at any time. I also owed a duty to my constituents, whose views, I had obtained on the matter, and in all the circumstances I believe I did what was best in an awkward situation for me, and I have no reason to be ashamed of the result. On the contrary, I am proud of it. Everyone knows I did not go into the Dail as a Government candidate, but everyone knew at the time that on a vital issue I would not oppose the Government, and my abstention on the occasion was support of the Government, even though I cast no vote. Since my action on the occasion I have received from a very large number of my constituents their assurance of their continued support should I be prepared to go forward again for election."

At the moment it would be impossible to give anything like an accurate forecast of the candidates to be nominated, but it is generally believed that the sitting deputies will be put forward again.

LEIX-OFFALY.

GOVERNMENT MAY WIN 3 SEATS.

ONLY TWO FIANNA FAIL NOMINEES.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
MARYBOROUGH, Friday.

In Labour circles the action of the Government is regarded with disfavour.

None of the political parties in Leix-Offaly, not even Cumann na nGaedheal, is actually in readiness for an election campaign.

The coming fight, it is expected, will be confined to Cumann na nGaedheal, Fianna Fail and Labour.

It is almost certain that Mr. W. Gavin and Mr. J. F. Gill, the outgoing Labour deputies, will again stand for their party.

Fianna Fail probably will put forward only the two candidates who were successful last June, Mr. T. Tynan and Mr. P. Boland.

It is thought that in a three-party contest Cumann na nGaedheal would stand a good chance of winning three seats, and in any event they will put up three candidates.

LIMERICK.

FARMERS' PARTY AND GOVERNMENT.

CUMANN NA nGAEDHEAL OPTIMISTIC.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LIMERICK, Friday.

The Cumann na nGaedheal Party is ready for the conest, and hopes to increase its representatives in the constituency. It has not made arrangements for holding a convention, but will do so within the next couple of days.

The dissolution has given Fianna Fail and Labour a rather nasty jolt, but they say that it will not minimise their representation in the constituency.

Labour will ceratinly put forward two, and possibly a third candidate, and I understand that Fianna Fail are meeting at once to consider the situation and take stock.

What the farmers intend doing has not yet transpired, but in view of their defeat at the last election it would not be surprising if they stood aside or stood in with the Government.

MEATH.

CANDIDATES AS BEFORE.

NEW GOVERNMENT NOMINEE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
KELLS, Friday.

Though no arrangements have been made yet, inquiries go to show that all the candidates who joined issue at the last election will contest this one.

In addition, it is generally expected that the Government Party will run another candidate along with Mr. Duggan, and in this connection several names are mentioned, the most likely ones being Mr. Martin O'Dwyer, ex-Chairman of the County Council, and Mr. F. C. O'Reilly, solicitor, Trim.

SOUTH MAYO.

FOUR GOVERNMENT CANDIDATES.

FIGHT BETWEEN THREE PARTIES.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BALLYHAUNIS, Friday.

The view is strongly held that the country generally will follow the lead of Dublin City and County on the 15th prox.

The nominations for the five South Mayo seats will take place in Ballyhaunis on Saturday week. The issue on this occasion will be fought out between the Government, Fianna Fail and Labour Parties.

Mr. T. J. O'Connell, who will be back from Canada for the nominations, and who headed the poll on the last occasion, again will be the Labour Party's standard bearer.

The Government nominees will not exceed four on this occasion. Mr. James Fitzgerald Kenny, K.C., and Mr. M. M. Nally (outgoing members) will be nominated in all probability, and possibly Mr. William Sears, whose defeat at the last election came as a great surprise. Mr. Sean T. Ruane, Kiltimagh, will be offered the fourth nomination.

The Farmers' Party will not put forward any contestant, neither will the National League.

It is not outside the bounds of possibility that a general understanding between the Farmers' and Government Party at headquarters may result in the inclusion of a nominee of the former in the Government panel.

NORTH MAYO.

MEETINGS DURING WEEK-END.

ONLY TWO PARTIES IN THE CONTEST.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT
BALLINA, Friday

Already there is feverish organising activity in the constituency.

Fianna Fail will hold a convention in Ballina on Sunday for the purpose of selecting candidates. The delegates have been summoned to the convention by wire.

Interviewed by the Irish Times correspondent, Mr. P. J. Ruttledge made the following statement:—"This attempt to stampede the people into securing the return to power of those who represented only a section of the people—a junta of Imperialism—will fail. Fianna Fail is ready."

No definite arrangements have yet been made by Cumann na nGaedheal to hold a convention for the selection of candidates, but the convention will be held either on Sunday or Monday next.

It is doubtful if a Sinn Fein candidate will be nominated for North Mayo.

The Government Party and Fianna Fail have their election machines intact since the general elections, and it is expected that the necessary whirlwind campaign will be in full swing early next week.

Fianna Fail will hold its initial public meeting to-morrow (Saturday) evening in Ballina. Many meetings will be held throughout the constituency on Sunday by the Government Party.

ROSCOMMON.

NO TIME LOST.

TWO BIG PARTIES ALREADY ACTIVE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
ROSCOMMON, Friday.

The dissolution took everyone by surprise.

The Cumann na nGaedheal organisation is losing no time in preparing for the election. A special circular was sent out to the various branches to-day, and arrangements are being made for a meeting on Sunday. Cumann na nGaedheal will put three men, and possibly four, into the field—Messrs. Martin Conlon (the late member), Andrew Lavin, and John Doran, who were defeated at the last election. Mr. Lavin was about 1,000 short of the quota, but Mr. Doran lasted until the last count. No information is available as to the fourth candidate.

Fianna Fail have arranged for a conference at Strokestown on Sunday, and Mr. Gerald Boland, who was in charge of the elections the last time, is expected here to-night. It is understood that the two late members, Mr. Boland and Doctor O'Dowd, will again seek election, with a third candidate, probably Mr. Muldoon, who was unable to stand at the last election, although nominated. The objection to Mr. Muldoon on that occasion has since been removed.

Labour, Sinn Fein, and Independents will also contest the elections, but the details as to the candidates are not so far available.

TIPPERARY.

THE SAME SEVEN NOMINEES.

SURPRISING RESULTS EXPECTED.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT
CLONMEL, Friday.

Supporters of the Government agree that the Executive's decision is wise and opportune. The Government's surprising success in the Dublin elections is regarded as an indication of the strong reaction in their favour, which, it is hoped, the general appeal to the people will further emphasise.

The seven Tipperary deputies elected in June will surely seek re-election. Mr. Dan Morrissey (Labour) headed the poll at the general election, and Mr. Seamus Bourke (Government) was the second highest.

The critical developments in the recent short-lived Dail will play an important part in the coming contest, and, it is expected, will produce surprising results.

WATERFORD.

GOVERNMENT GAIN ANTICIPATED.

FIANNA FAIL CAUGHT NAPPING.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WATERFORD, Friday.

Opinions in Waterford are sharply divided as regards the political situation. I spent many hours to-day interviewing leaders of different political parties in the city. By great good luck I happened to meet prominent East Waterford farmers in the city.

Prominent Cumann na nGaedheal members, as well as farmers, who speak with considerable authority, agree that the Government in dissolving the Dail acted quite rightly. Business circles also regard the Government's action with approval.

These three elements are in favour of the general election, which, they say, will clear the political atmosphere, and decide the issue once for all. People who are accustomed to think for themselves believe that the political issue is now knit as between Fianna Fail and the Government, and that between these two parties all smaller parties will be practically wiped out.

I am assured by men who are competent to speak for the Cumann na nGaedheal and Farmers' Parties, as well as for the business men in Waterford City, that the Government will gain in the city and county.

There is little doubt that Dr. V. J. White will be one of the Government candidates here, and, judging by the last election figures, as well as his popularity in Waterford, I am certain that he will be returned again. A second Government candidate has not been selected yet, but it is certain that Cumann na nGaedheal will put up another.

As regards Captain Redmond, I should say that his return for this constituency is assured on sentimental grounds alone, but he will not be returned by anything like the majority he had at the last election. Many of his supporters take exception to his association, however slight, with the de Valera faction. It is estimated by expert computators that he will lose at least 2,000 votes, while a good many of his supporters doubt if he will reach the quota in the first count. It is taken for granted that Captain Redmond, supported by the local branch of the National League, which is numerically weak, will stand again, but no second candidate in the National League interest has been mentioned.

The farmers do not at present know who their candidate will be, but their sympathies are wholly with the Government, and there is a strong rumour that there may be a Government-Farmers' alliance in this constituency.

Fianna Fail leaders here say that there is no justification for the dissolution, which will force an expensive contest on the country. They say that the election is premature, and urge that what is wanted is a rest from elections for some time. But the real truth is that the Government have caught them napping for once, and their unpreparedness is their great grievance.

Sinn Fein opinion is more or less the same.

The Fianna Fail Party regard Mr. P. J. Little as their strongest candidate, and here again a second candidate is problematical.

Sinn Fein are all out for Mrs. Cathal Brugha, but there is some doubt as to her eligibility.

Labour will do nothing until its convention, the date of which is not fixed, and, although I pressed the question, I could get no assurance as to whether their last two candidates will be again selected.

WEXFORD.

RESULTS MAY BE SURPRISING.

PARTIES TAKEN UNPREPARED.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WEXFORD, Friday.

It is said that none of the political parties is in a financial position to fight an election so soon after the last.

In the short time available all the political parties will find it difficult to decide on candidates and carry on their campaign with anything like the vigour of the last.

It is, therefore, a feeling in many quarters that surprising results may be the outcome of the polling.

WICKLOW.

VICTORIOUS TRIO AGAIN?

ATTITUDE OF THE FARMERS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WICKLOW, Friday.

The same three members undoubtedly will be nominated for this constituency, as they were so successful, Everett heading the poll for Labour, Moore for Fianna Fail, and O'Mahony for the Government.

In order to put up the strongest local man against Moore, it is regarded as possible that Byrne, the defeated Independent, will be nominated in the Government interest.

Wilson (Farmers), while favouring the amalgamation scheme, remained loyal to the Union decision, and suffered defeat. Personally he, too, would support the Government, but no doubt the Farmers will again nominate him.

The late Lieutenant Patten was so decisively beaten in the National League interests that it is not now likely the League will make a further nomination.

The Government may secure two of the three seats. If they do not arrange with Byrne or Wilson, a certain Wicklow business man may tender his name.

Help the Government to finish the job....

THE most critical election in the life of the State is now in sight. On its result will depend whether there is to be a prolonged period of ordered government with security for person and property, or a period of government by intrigue with instability and chaos as its accompaniments.

The Government's record is before you. It has laid the foundations of a strong, prosperous and democratic State. As a result of its constructive and progressive legislation the credit of the State stands high. The financial and industrial outlook is bright and promising.

The full results of this good work have not yet been reaped because of the activities of parties whose ideal is either the destruction of the State for an "empty formula" or the securing for themselves of position and power by bargaining behind the people's backs.

Help the Government to finish the job.

If your help is not forthcoming at once, the ruin of your country may be the price of your neglect.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

DULL RACING.

ANOTHER ST. LEGER CASUALTY.

STEEL POINT'S FAILURE.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
GATWICK, Friday Night.

There seems to be some sort of curse on the likely St. Leger horses this year ever since the death of Mr. Curzon made the nomination of Call Boy void. The latest casualty is Mr. Singer's Chantrey, who was found to be amiss when he returned from exercise yesterday morning, had three veterinary surgeons treating him all day yesterday and all last night, and died early this morning from a twisted intestine. It is very bad luck for Mr. Singer, for whom he had won the Prince of Wales's Stakes at Ascot, and the Welsh Derby, and run second in the Irish Derby, and was very confidently expected to run into a place, at least, in the St. Leger. Bred at the Straffan Station Stud, this colt was by Gainsborough out of Chancery.

The death is announced of Mr. W. de Pledge, who raced during the war and since in Ireland, where he had a breeding establishment as well as another at Newmarket. He sold his brood mares at the last December sales and his horses in training in July, and his death has been expected for some time. The best horse he ever had was By Jingo, whom Stephen Donoghue bred, and who won him Manchester Cups and an Ascot Gold Cup.

We had dull and rather uninteresting racing, without much life in it, here this afternoon, and those who came in the hope of retrieving their York losses—and those have in many cases been heavy—were disappointed, although two favourites won. Wootton's Square Lad, backed to the exclusion of practically everything in the opening seller, whipped round, and was left at the start, and an outsider, Skias, who started at 20 to 1, won from Currahacle.

THE BEST CONTEST.

The two-year-old selling race produced the best contest of the day, in which Overround beat the Gay Goshawk filly by a short head. Nightingall's stable had to let her go at the subsequent sale, Mr. F. H. Bowcher taking her for 750 guineas. At this price she looks a bargain; for, apart from the possession of some racing ability, she is a big roomy good-looking filly by Roi Herode, out of the Simon Square mare, Papa Sound, the dam of several winners, and she looks a real good sort for the paddock.

Nightingall also won the next race, the Home-Bred T.Y.O. Plate, with Similkameen, who was in front practically all the way, and beat the favourite, Lord Rosebery's Quip, by two lengths, Languish finishing three-parts of a length away, third.

Steel Point was favourite for the August Handicap, but this big colt may be a little over-rated, for he was beaten out of a place behind Blacon, who won by a head and three lengths from Longquill and Planardo. Longquill came a little late on the scene, and was rather pinched for room between the winner, who made all the running, and the rails. A stride past the post he had his head in front.

There was most significant backing of the French filly, Bisquine, in the Tilgate Mid-Weight Handicap, which she won by a length from Despatch, with whom Walter Nightingall contemplated a treble. After she had run well in the French Oaks Baron Baeyens sent her to McColl to be trained, and here she was backed down from 10 to 1 to 5 to 2. Though she led all the way, she did not win by any means too easily from Despatch.

TIGER HILL'S DEFEAT.

A short price was taken about the Golden Myth colt, Tiger Hill, in the last race, the Stayers' Stakes, but he was beaten three lengths by Captain Herbert Dixon's Roselake, who took up the running from Zenoff when they had gone six furlongs. Tiger Hill was drawing up to challenge when he came right away from the rails, as he had done when disqualified at Hurst Park, and when Childs had straightened him out again the race was lost.

To-morrow's programme suggest that the racing will be much the same as it was this afternoon. There will be a big field for the Lowfield Two-Year-Old Selling Plate, in which I like the chance of JOHN SILVER better than that of Dombey, these appearing to be the two best in the race. In the County Mid-Weight Handicap GRANDENE may beat Abbot's Smile, who has 26lb. to give away in going that is likely to be as dead as it was this afternoon. SAMPHIRE may win the Moderate Plate.

At Bogside the best chances seem to be those of MELIBEUS in the Ailsa Handicap and of the HALF HOOP filly in the Irvine Maiden Plate.

BALDOYLE.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

There is promise of interesting sport at Baldoyle, where an attractive programme will be submitted, and, judging from the number of horses that have arrived or are under orders to fulfil engagements, there will be no dearth of runners. The outstanding feature on a nicely varied card is the valuable Baldoyle Foal Plate, for which the following are expected to go to the post:—

Major Dixon's SWIFT MARTEN, 9-10 ... Jos. Canty.
Capt. Whitworth's GOLDEN ORACLE, 9-6 ... J. Moylan.
Col. Blake's CHARDON, 8-2 ... E. Quirke.
Capt. Brassey's ZOROASTA, 8-2 ... John Doyle.
Col. Clarke's IRISH GLASS, 8-2 ... A. Dardis.
Mr. E. Delany's JOLLIFICATION, 8-2 ... Jos. Doyle.
Major Dixon's ARGOLIS, 8-2 ... A. Barrett.
Mr. F. Clarke's HEATHER, 8-2 ... W. Myles.
Mr. T. Coumbs's DORENA, 8-2 ... Jas. Doyle.
Mr. A. Turner's CIBOULETTE, 8-2 ... C. Grogan.

Golden Oracle, Chardon, and Swift Marten will be renewing their Phœnix Plate battle, and on that running Chardon would appear to have an excellent chance of atoning for an expensive failure. In the race just mentioned, which was won by Athford, Chardon was split from the winner by Golden Oracle, necks only dividing the trio, and she now meets Captain Whitworth's colt on 5lb. better terms, which should enable her to turn the tables, so the selection is

BOYS' CHAMPIONSHIP.

ANGLO-SCOTTISH FINAL.

In the penultimate stage of the Boys' Championship on the course of the Edinburgh Burgess Club at Barnton yesterday, Charles Sweeney, the American, was defeated by Eric Fiddian, of Bromsgrove School, near Birmingham, who will meet in the final Kenneth Forbes, of Leven.

Thus the final, as on four of the five previous occasions, will be between an English golfer and a Scottish representative. The finish will be over 36 holes. Forbes, who is ten months the junior of Fiddian, was in the semi-final last year, and recently had the fourth best score in the Eden Tournament at St. Andrews.

A chill air and a Scotch mist swept over the links in the afternoon.

COMMENTS UPON TO-DAY.

High water (Dublin Bar) at 12.39 p.m. A convenient tide on ebb all the afternoon, and a flood to come home after 7 p.m., should the weather turn light. The weather, by the way, looks uncommonly like taking up. The barometer is quite promising, the air has become warmer, and the rain seems to have dried up for the time being.

The close of the season is in sight, or will be when to-day is over. With the Corinthian race for 21-footers, the season's programme of the Royal Alfred Y.C. will be complete. Paid hands are barred in a race of the kind, and helmsmen and crews must be members of the club, and it should not be difficult to man all four boats in the class, even if this be a vacation period.

The Dublin Bay S.C. programme goes on until September 10th—that is to say, there will be two more race afternoons after to-day. There is nothing out of the way in to-day's fixture list. The small cruisers are included, and their handicap will be announced this afternoon, when it will be possible to guess what the weather will be like.

Racing for marks ends to-day with the Seapoint classes. The No. 1 class also sail the final tie for the captain's prize this afternoon, while the No. 3 class have a special prize. The Dalkey Island race next Saturday will finish the club season.

ROYAL DART CLUB REGATTA.

The regatta of this club took place at Dartmouth yesterday, and the fixture was favoured with beautiful weather, a nice westerly breeze, with smooth sea, making the conditions ideal. Some splendid racing was seen. Britannia was again successful in the big class, after a very close race with Shamrock, the Royal cutter only getting home by 27 secs. The 12-metre boats also had a very fine race, which resulted in Noresca securing first prize, with Iyruna second and Iris third. The third race was won by Kathleen, with Dawn second. In the race for yachts under 8 tons, Ripple was the winner, with Tomboy second and Uno third.

LAWN TENNIS.

WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIPS IN AMERICA.

FOREST HILLS, Friday.

Mrs. Chapin, the fifth ranking player in the United States, to-day followed up her sensational triumph over Miss Joan Fry by eliminating the national champion in the quarter finals. Mrs. Mallory was a decided favourite, and seemed to be in full command of her game when she easily won the second set and brought the score to one set all.

In the third set, however, she dropped her service three times in succession, and the score stood at 2-6 before she staged a tardy rally to bring the count to 4-5. Mrs. Chapin won set and match on her own service in the tenth game. Both players kept well back in the court, where Mrs. Chapin, calmly handling her opponent's masterful drives, defeated her at her own game. The final score reads 6-3, 1-6, 6-4.

Miss Betty Nuthall became the third semi-finalist, scoring an uphill victory over Miss Eleanor Goss by 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.

Miss Helen Jacobs (California) defeated Mrs. Roeser (New York)—6-8, 8-6, 6-2.

In the quarter-final of the doubles Mrs. Godfree and Miss Harvey (Britain) defeated Miss Molly Thayer (Philadelphia) and Miss Isabella Mumford (Boston)—6-1, 6-1.

F. T. HUNTER BEATEN.

NEWPORT, Friday.

Manuel Alonso to-day defeated Francis T. Hunter, Tilden's partner in the Davis Cup matches, by 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3, in the semi-final of an invitation tournament here. The result came as a decided surprise. Hunter took the first set largely through speedy forehand drives for placements, but lost the last three on his notoriously weak backhand. Alonso, who was faster on his feet than Hunter, made some spectacular returns, and his retrieving throughout was a feature of the match.

W. T. Tilden defeated John van Ryn 6-4, 6-3, 6-1, in the other semi-final.

THE DAVIS CUP.

BOSTON, Friday.

J. Brugnon and H. Cochet defeated Harada and Ohta in the Doubles—9-7, 6-1, 6-2. By winning this match France has eliminated Japan from the inter-zone final, and will now have to meet the holders, the United States.

Clontarf—All competitors in the semi-open tournament are requested to be on the ground at 2.30 p.m. to-day.

MOVE FOR CHEAPER RACING.

SOUTHERN EXECUTIVES FEAR HEAVY LOSSES.

Discussing with a Press Association representative at Gatwick yesterday the recent decision of the Derby Race Committee to reduce the charge for admission to Tattersall's Ring to £1, Mr. E. E. Robinson, the Clerk of the Course, said: "Speaking for this meeting and the several others with which I am associated, I declare emphatically that the entertainment tax of two shillings and sixpence cannot be borne by us unless there is to be an equivalent reduction in the amount given for stakes. As matters stand, we are required by the Jockey Club to commit ourselves to certain expenditure in stakes for twelve months ahead, and if we were to reduce the admission charge to £1 while this outlay is in operation we should lose heavily. I understand, however, that there is no likelihood of the south country bookmakers taking action similar to that of their fellows in the Midlands.

TOTALISATOR ADVENT HASTENED.

Mr. F. W. Wilmot, the Clerk of the Course at Lingfield and also at York, supported Mr. Robinson's contentions, and added: "If a reduction in prize-money takes place it must inevitably lead to a decrease in the value of bloodstock. The bookmakers, by their action at York, have in my opinion, greatly hastened the advent of the totalisator, the introduction of which many more executives will now most certainly advocate." With reference to York, it was pointed out that the management there is in a totally different position from the ordinary racecourse company. The meetings there are run by a wealthy committee who have no dividends to provide for and who devote the whole of their receipts to stake money and structural and other improvements to the course.

BOXING.

TOURNAMENT IN DERRY.

Londonderry Guildhall was packed last night for the boxing tournament promoted by Alderman Meenan.

Billy Carlin (Derry) beat Young Stewart (Derry) in a six-round contest, Stewart retiring after the fourth round with a damaged thumb.

Jack M'Cleery (Belfast) and Kid Caulfield (Derry) fought a six-round contest, Caulfield winning on points.

Jack Duffy (Derry) and Private Smith (Sherwood Foresters) were matched in a six-round contest, which Smith won, knocking out his opponent in the first round.

Johnny Davison (Belfast) was to meet Ranger Harkin (Derry) in a ten-round contest. Davison was unable to appear, and Jim O'Brien (Belfast) deputised for him. O'Brien damaged his right hand in the fifth round, and fought the remainder of the contest with one hand, Harkin being awarded the verdict on points.

Billy Wright (Derry) beat Kid Doyle (Derry) on points in a six-round contest.

Frank Dunn (Derry) met Pat MacCalister (Belfast), ex-welter-weight champion of Ireland and Free State welter-weight championship belt holder in a six-round bout. Alderman Meenan, the referee, declared the fight a draw.

HANDBALL.

G.H.Q. CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Yesterday, at the Castle Alley, the feature of the G.H.Q. Command Championships was the play of Private Hughes (Griffith Barracks). Following up his victory in the hard ball singles the previous day, he won the soft ball singles and was principally instrumental in securing both sets of doubles for Griffith Barracks. His play on both days suggests many future successes.

The results were:—

Hard Ball Doubles (semi-final)—Privates Hughes and Darcy (Griffith) beat Corporal Wall and Private Deneane (McKee), 21-16, 21-14; Privates Sullivan and Byrne (Island Bridge), a bye. Final—Privates Hughes and Darcy beat Sullivan and Byrne, 21-4, 21-14.

Soft Ball Singles (final)—Private Hughes beat Private Byrne, 21-13, 21-11.

Soft Ball Doubles (final)—Privates Hughes and Frehy beat Corporal Wall and Private Mee, 21-9, 21-19.

ATHLETICS AND CYCLING.

CIVIL SERVICE SPORTS.

The revival of the Civil Service Sports by the Civil Service A. and C.C. at Croke Park to-day will be an event of more than ordinary importance in Dublin athletics.

A most attractive programme has been arranged, with a two miles invitation team race standing out prominently. For this, it is stated, the entries include teams from the Hallamshire, Ulsterville, Willowfield, Clonliffe, Donore, Dublin City and Civil Service Harriers, and Tipperary A.C., and, should Harper, the English crack, compete against the local men and the Ulster champions, the race should be an exceptionally interesting one. The open and confined events have been well supported, and a novelty will be the ladies' 100 yards Civil Service Championship. The first event is timed for 2.30, the team race being fixed for 2.45.

THE TWENTY-FOUR HOURS' TRIAL.

An attempt on the Irish twenty-four hours' road record is to be made to-day by W. J. Finn, of the Irish Road Club. He held the record for many years, but was deprived of it by J. Sweeney, who came into prominence in the autumn of 1925 with a ride of 336 miles 288 perches in the twenty-four hours.

Finn is to start from Dublin at 8 a.m. this morning. His route lies for the most part in the flat country lying to the south of Dublin—Mullingar road, Mullingar being the most westerly point. The first section will be to Mullingar and back, and then to Dunshaughlin and back twice, after which he will do the western journey a second time, making double detours from Kilcock to Naas, from Enfield to Edenderry, and from Kinnegad to Rochfort Bridge.

He is due in the Phœnix Park at the following times to-day:—Gough Statue, 1.40 p.m. and 3.20 p.m.; Phœnix Monument, 5.15 p.m. If the weather permits him to ride to his schedule, he should pass the old record point with over an hour in hand, and he will finish his ride in the neighbourhood of Dublin.

The Committee of Inquiry.

A meeting of the Committee appointed to inquire into the present condition of racing in Ireland will be held at the Registry Office, Dublin, on Tuesday next. A committee of the Owners' Association will be interviewed at 2.30 p.m.

SURREY V. LEICESTERSHIRE.

As on the previous afternoon, not a ball could be bowled at the Oval yesterday. Another heavy rainstorm on Thursday afternoon saturated the wicket again, and soon after two o'clock it was decided to abandon the match. As less than six hours' cricket took place the game does not count in the table of results. Leicestershire scored 90 for 4 wickets in one hundred minutes on Wednesday.

MEATH CRICKET LEAGUE.

Two semi-finals in the above League will be played on to-day. In the Senior Division Headfort play Batrath at Dunsany, and in the Junior Robinstown meet Summerhill at Galtrim.

ULSTER CUP FINAL.

The Ulster Senior Cup Final, between North Down (the holders) and Holywood, commenced at Belfast yesterday, and will be continued to-day. Holywood batted three hours for the small score of 99, and when stumps were drawn North Down had knocked up 104 for the loss of five wickets. Captain Welch, with 26, was top scorer for Holywood, and for North Down A. S. Anderson contributed 32, and W. Andrews 29 not out.

TO-DAY'S MATCHES.

WILL LEINSTER WIN THE CHAMPIONSHIP?

The chief attraction in to-day's list of local senior matches is the return game between Leinster and Pembroke at Rathmines.

On the result of this match depends the League championship. If Leinster win they will finish their League season with 27 points, Dublin University being next in the list with 25 points.

It had been assumed that Dublin University had established themselves in a winning position at the head of the table. Their two matches with Railway Union having fallen through, Trinity were supposed to be entitled to the points by default of that club. The rule of the League is clear that in the event of a postponed match not being played within a week it automatically lapses, neither team taking the points.

The official Senior League table to date is:

	P.	W.	L.	D.	Tie.	No result.	Pts.
Dublin University	12	7	1	4	0	0	25
Leinster	13	6	1	6	0	0	24
Clontarf	14	6	2	6	0	0	24

BANKERS' CUP—FINAL.

ROYAL V. PROVINCIAL.

Play in the Bankers' Cup final was resumed yesterday at Rathmines, when Provincial, who had made 14 without loss in reply to the Royal's total of 166, went on batting. R. T. Tilson played a fine innings for 66, and J. S. Waugh scored 32, but the innings closed for 154. W. S. Despard took 3 wickets for 24. Holding a lead of 12 runs, Royal went in a second time, and at close of play had 1 wicket down for 10. The match will be resumed on Monday at 4.30. Score:—

GAELIC GAMES.

LEINSTER'S CHANCES AGAINST ULSTER.

(BY PAT'O.)

Munster and Connaught meet at Tuam, and Leinster and Ulster play at Drogheda, to-morrow. The respective winners play in the All-Ireland football final at Croke Park on September 25th. Kerry represents Munster, without playing their final against Clare. In Leitrim they meet new opponents. For several years Leitrim have made steady progress in league and championship games, but their defeat of Galway was a big surprise. They have rarely been seen outside their own province, yet they are reputed to be fast and clever, excelling in ground work.

Kerry re-opened their championship programme by beating Tipperary rather easily, and, with all their players back from their American tour, Munster expect to qualify to-morrow for the All-Ireland final. Shrewd Connaught judges of football anticipate a close struggle, and a surprise is possible.

The game at Drogheda is likely to arouse even greater interest. Ulster has been represented by Cavan for many seasons, with Armagh, Monaghan, and Antrim in close pursuit. This year Monaghan had been doing well in tournament and club matches. The earlier rounds of the provincial championship proved them to be a steady, persevering side, yet few expected them to oust Cavan from the title. The appearance of Superintendent Kilroy in the Monaghan camp seemed to inspire the team, and they had a sound win. Their display to-morrow against a team of Kildare's repute is keenly looked forward to. Kildare has a long series of victories, and seem to improve weekly. In leagues, championships, tournaments, and club matches they have not suffered defeat since the 1926 final, won by Kerry after a drawn game. Steady practice and a careful selection have built up a Kildare team which, in my opinion, has more resolution in it than was present a year ago. Albert O'Neill may go back to his old place, and, behind him, the team has few faults. Walsh is a first-rate goalkeeper, and Goff leads a sound lot of backs. Loughlin and Gannon are powerful midfield men, whilst Higgins and Malone are playing high-class football. On recent form, Paul Doyle may be reckoned the best winger playing Gaelic football to-day. Not alone has he speed and judgment, with accurate hands and feet, but he is a tireless worker. Monaghan have trained enthusiastically for to-morrow's match, and I anticipate a fast game.

Beyond the meeting of O'Toole's and St. Mary's in the Dublin League, we have no senior games in Dublin to-morrw, and all departments are working out details of preparation for the Cork v. Dublin All-Ireland hurling final on September 4th. Thirty-five special trains are being run from all parts of Ireland, and training is proceeding vigorously. B. Aherne will be absent from the Cork side as his injury in the Galway match was rather serious. The ground is undergoing special preparation, and the additional entrance and exit gates will be much appreciated. Mr. Denis Lanigan (Limerick) will referee.

PRODUCE AND FOOD MARKETS.

CATTLE.

BIRKENHEAD.—A very bad trade was experienced for the larger supply of cattle on offer, with fewer buyers present. Choice small heifers with difficulty made 9d. per lb., bullocks 8½d., strong and middling sorts 8d. to 6½d., cows and bulls 5d. to 6d. A poor demand prevailed for lamb, and recent quotations were maintained only for choice small sorts, other classes being lower. On offer—2,199 cattle and 3,436 lambs.

GRAIN

DUBLIN CORN EXCHANGE.—Last season's oats continue to be quoted around previous prices in retail. A good deal of grain in Dublin and adjacent counties has already been cut, but no definite sales yet reported. Bad weather against harvesting and threshing.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—BALTIC—WHEAT—A generally firm tone pervaded the market for floating and forward cargoes, holders showing more reserve, following improved American cables, hard winter and plate descriptions being held for a slight advance. Buyers, however, were reluctant to follow the upward trend. The freight position is very firm, with active chartering from Montreal. White Pacific September-October quoted 52/-. No. 2 hard winter Gulf shipment August 52/6, ditto Pacific shipment September 52/3. Rosafe (62½lbs.) 15th September 54/9. Australian afloat 55/9, ditto loading 55/-, and choice white Karachi afloat 54/9. Parcels quiet, but rates steadier for North American grades. MAIZE cargoes held for 3d. per qr. advance, and offers less freely made in view of moderate Argentine weekly shipments and a better consumptive demand, especially for near positions. DUBLIN POULTRY AND GAME.—Supplies of poultry, and especially chickens, yesterday morning were exceptionally heavy, and sales were not completed before midday, so tediously slow was business in face of big arrivals to be dealt with. Supplies of eggs continue on the wane with a corresponding hardening in values. The shrinkage in egg-production over the past two or three weeks and gradual toning up in prices is, in fact, now having a manifest effect on the consumptive demand, a certain influence in wholesale distribution, and matters are likely to be confined to a comparatively quiet groove for a few weeks to come. Choice selected hen eggs 15/9 to 16/9; extra heavily-picked, fresh, large 17/- to 17/6, ordinary and selected case arrivals 14/6 to 15/3, mediums, say, 12/6 to 13/6, smalls proportionately; duck scarce to 13/- to 14/- per 120 for tested qualities.

AUTUMN SHEEP SALES.

Messrs. Craigie Bros. held the first of their series of autumn sheep sales in the Cattle Market, Dublin, on yesterday, when a large and representative attendance of buyers was present. Owing to rumours of labour troubles during the week, the show of Galway ewes was smaller than usual, many owners fearing to take the risk. Cheviot ewes, however, were shown in fairly large numbers, and realised satisfactory prices, the average for the best lots being only from 1/- to 3/- under last season. Blackfaced horny ewes were an average show, and prices for the tops lots about 5/- under last year. There was keen competition for a consignment of 130 Suffolk cross lambs from the Marquis of Waterford's Curraghmore flock, the ewe lambs selling at 40/- and the wether lambs to 38/-, or 1/- over last year's top price. The following are amongst the principal sales effected:—Mr. Thomas Dolan's Suffolk cross ewes 66/-, Mr. Jeremiah Casey's ditto 54/-, Mr. John J. Smyth's Oxford cross ewes 62/- to 63/-, Mr. A. G. Ryall's Galway ewes 53/-, Mr. T. W.
